Parochial school?

PLEASANTON — The Oakland Diocese will send questionnaires to one of every five families in the four Valley parishes to find out if they want a Catholic school in the area.

Father Edmond Cloutier of St. Augustine's Catholic Church here said the survey is in response to a petition signed by 210 supporters of a church school.

Questionnaires will go to families in Danville, Dublin, Livermore and Pleasanton.

Results of the poll will not be forthcoming until Jan 12, according to Father Cloutier, when they will be run through a computer for tabulation. By the end of January, Father Cloutier said, it will be known whether there will be a school, built in the Valley.

SR averting costly losses

Grim decline in school rolls

The shock waves of the "sewer freeze" and residential building slowdown have caught up with schools in Pleasanton and Livermore.

Where once just the kindergarten through eighth grade Murray district was considered in the throes of a pronounced enrollment decline, elementary schools in Pleasanton and elementary and secondary schools in Livermore are now beginning to lose enrollment.

Livermore Valley Unified's Dick Jenkins, director of pupil services, said the projected total average daily attendance (ADA) is 13, 942.12. This figure, which is a projection for June of 1978, includes 3,801.80 for grades 9-12, 2,114.85 for gades 7-8 and 6,864.47 for grades kindergarten through sixth, plus adult programs, Regional Occupational Program, summer school and other adult classes.

Jenkins says enrollment in Livermore "peaked" three years ago at 15,000-plus.

He adds that all indications are there'll be declines for "at least several years to come."

Pleasanton Joint School District trustees learned Wednesday that fall of 1980 projections show 960 less students enrolled.

The drastic drop would be equivalent to almost 20 per cent of the district's total ADA, figured now to be 4,973.

Murray also continues to show a sizable decline in enrollment.

The K-8 district was at 5,169 in June and, as of Nov. 18, is down to 4,829.

Most recent projections indicate the district could fall several hundred more by the early 1980s.

Amador Valley Joint High School District has reached a plateau in enrollment, and the latest available projections tend to show an overal decline for the next several years.

Only San Ramon has escaped the student population outflow. The Contra Costa County district, in fact, is experienceing unparalleled growth and faces the prospect of double sessions no matter if a year-round schools pilot project is initiated next July.

Lab official tells energy search plan

Lawrence Livermore Laboratory Deputy Director Duane Sewell told a Lions Club luncheon yesterday that the Lab is involved in developing four alternative sources of energy that could one day make the current crisis a bad memory.

Technologies under study at LLL, he said, could uncover ways to profitably produce energy from deep deposits of coal, shale containing oil, geothermal sources and solar power.

Sewell said the Lab embarked on research into the alternative energy sources because these untapped reserves could be valuable if developed. He added that the Lawrence Lab could possibly contribute unique research in the field.

The Lab's experience in underground explosives testing, Sewell cited as an example, should be an advantage in current research being conducted in Wyoming to extract natural gas from deep deposits of coal.

Researchers hope to perfect a method whereby several deep holes into coal are drilled, these holes are joined at the bottom, and a burning process pushes natural gas to the top.

The Wyoming area currently being researched could conceivably produce six to 10 times the amount of natural gas reserves existing in the country, Sewell said.

In some areas of Idaho, Wyoming, Utah and Colorado, rich deposits of underground shale may yield 20 gallons of oil, per ton. This can be achieved by heating the underground rock to 700 degrees, forcing oil to the surface.

This area alone, Sewell said, contains 720 billion barrels of oil. If even half of this was produced, it would equal the oil reserves held by the entire Arab world.

"We are convinced this can be done," he said, adding that preliminary data indicates the cost of oil produced from shale would be from nine to 13 dollars a gallon.

County looks at new courtroom in Livermore

LIVERMORE — In a situation involving some political horsetrading, Alameda County may add a third courtroom or extra office building here soon.

County Administrator Loren Enoch told The Times yesterday that he is looking into moving a 1,200 square foot portable courtroom, complete with its own holding cell, from Fremont to the small parking lot adjacent to the courthourse here.

If that happens, the building would use at least 14 present spaces in the small county parking lot and also create even more demand for parking. It could be a problem the city, county, and First Street merchants who already complain that the 90- space municipally - leased lot next to the courthouse lot is too small.

Enoch wants to work out a plan with the city and merchants for parking if the building is moved to the site. In fact, until he gets a satisfactory agreement, he wants to hold back on the county's commitment to pay nearly a third of the rent of the new Livermore Multi - Service Center, scheduled to open next summer in the civic center.

The agreement with the city to move county medical workers into a clinic in the multi - service center came before supervisors on Tuesday, but Enoch asked that it be held up until he got some "parking problems" worked out. Supervisors agreed, though Enoch did not say which parking problems at the time and many probably thought he meant possible parking problems at the multi - service center.

Valley artists' show

The Valley Artists' Christmas Show at Liberty House in Dublin, will continue through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily. The qroup's monthly meeting will be a potluck dinner Friday, Dec. 16 at 6:30 p.m. For information, call 828-4995.

Symphony to perform

The CETA Symphony will perform at the Shannon CommunitY Center in Dublin Sunday, Dec. 11, at 3 p.m. Jonathan Khuner will conduct works by Ravel, Shumann and Beethoven in the free concert.

Dickens Fair continues

The Dickens Fair continues weekends through Dec. 18 at the Cow Palace in San Francisco. Hours are from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $5.95 for adults and $2.95 for children 12 and older.

Morale 'definitely low'

Vallecitos cuts 60 workers

PLEASANTON — Rumors of layoffs culminated yesterday when approximately 60 General Electric employees were given dismissal notices at Vallecitos Nuclear Center.

Some laid-off were forewarned by their supervisors earlier this week, but to others the news ended disturbing speculation at the plant as to who would be chosen to go.

"More than anything, we were shocked that we were in this situation," said one employee.

"We've all been here for a long time. We're rooted and it's difficult at this time to accept the situation," the 20-year GE veteran added.

Half of the 525 GE employees here hold jobs either directly or indirectly related to the center's large nuclear reactor (GETR) shut down Oct. 27 by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

The NRC hasn't yet decided if GE will be allowed to re-open the reactor, shut when evidence of earthquake faulting was discovered within 200 feet.

But spokesman Randy Watkins wouldn't say if GE expects to lay-off more employees later.

"Every attempt is being made to place effected employees in temporary or permanent positions either at Vallecitos or within other GE company components," he said.

All employees received at least two weeks notice and some will continue working for 30 or 60 days, guaranteeing them employment through the holidays.

Those who received pink slips were not told how long they would be laid-off. That strictly depends on whether GE can re-open the large reactor, said Watkins.

Meanwhile, morale at Vallecitos is "definitely low," according to an employee who noted most employees (63 percent) live in the valley and are established in these communities.

Weather

Fair in the Valley through today with late night or morning fog and low clouds. Increasing clouds in the afternoon today. Chance of drizzle through Saturday morning.

Police swap freedom for a computer

LIVERMORE — A $25,000 computer was stolen Monday from a car parked overnight at the Holiday Inn and returned several hours later after police traced the theft and offered a "no questions asked" ultimatum for its return.

CHP

Drunk drivers target here

The Valley and southern Contra Costa County have been chosen as special target areas for the California Highway Patrol's December anti-drunken driving campaign.

According to the CHP, drunken driving is a near-epidemic problem in California; "beyond belief" in the Valley, in the words of one officer in the patrol's Hayward station.

"December is clearly the worst month because of the double holiday and so many holiday parties all together," said Kent Milton, the CHP's public information head in Sacramento.

Statewide, 24 targets were chosen to share $524,000 in federal funds in December, with the bulk of it used to finance overtime for additional officers on the road during the night and early morning.

The areas were singled out statistically for their high proportion of alcohol-related accidents in past Decembers but, Milton quickly points out, many other areas of California have problems almost as great.

The Hayward station which patrols the Valley has received $1900 for overtime pay in December and has planned to step-up its surveillance of the Interstate 580 and 680 interchange.

The CHP has earmarked $148,000 for an intensive public information campaign in the target areas, including posters at local businesses, bars and restaurants and even cocktail napkins with the patrol's emergency number, ZE-1-2000.

Persons seeing an intoxicated bar patron or party guest are encouraged to ask the operator for the emergency number if they can't persuade the individual not to drive.

And though some bar owners have contended this practice could become more of a nuisance than a help, the CHP disagrees and points out that even with more "tips," standard procedures will be followed.

Girl held against will

LIVERMORE — Reports that a girl was being held against her will at a local motel Monday led to the arrest of a 21-year-old Livermore man, police reported.

Police went to the Town Motel at 3068 First St. and arrested Manuel Meza Jasso of 1068 Coronado St.

Jasso was booked on suspicion of false imprisonment, furnishing alcoholic beverages to a minor, and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Police are continuing their investigation of the case.

PLEASANTON — A Livermore man suspected by police of possessing goods stolen from a Ruxton Court residence Tuesday was arrested.

Burglars forced entry to Susan Machado's home and took $3,653 in valuables, police reported.

California Highway Patrol officers later arrested a man suspected of driving while intoxicated, Pleasanton police officers reported. Property allegedly belonging to Machado was found in the suspect's vehicle.

Booked on suspicion of receiving stolen property and burglary was Hans Peter Sorensen, 40, of 3211 Leahy Way in Liveormore.

LIVERMORE — An Idaho man whose van reportedly skidded up onto a raised median strip on Portola Avenue near First Street late Monday allegedly possessed a billy club and a pint of whiskey, police reported.

The van hit a sprinkler head and reflector, police said. Officers searched the van and found a billy club.

A search of the suspect revealed a pint of whiskey in his left sock.

Booked on suspicion of possessing a concealed weapon, an open container of an alcoholic beverage and drunk driving was Richard Allen Poe, 25, of Boise, Idaho.

PLEASANTON — Burglars forced their way into a Vineyard Avenue residence Wednesday via a pet door and stole $316 of valuables, police reported.

Lois McGonegan reported the theft of stereo, rings, coins, a necklace and earrings. There are no suspects.

LIVERMORE — A short-change artist conned $10 from a local service station Wednesday evening, police reported.

A man asked for $1's worth of gas and handed the attendant a $10 bill. The man went to the restroom, returned, got $9 in change, and then said "Oh, I thought I gave you a one" and indicated he wanted to get rid of change.

He handed the attendant several ones, finally confusing him into giving back a twenty-dollar bill. A check of receipts later showed that the suspect had escaped with $10.

Merchants are warned to beware of similar tactics.

LIVERMORE — Burglars took an estimated $200 worth of auto parts from a vehicle parked on First Street last week, police reported.

James Boueue told police he found his car hoisted onto blocks and that four mag wheels and tires were missing. Burglars also took a two-barrel carburetor, radiator, and two speakers.

There are no suspects.

LIVERMORE — A commercial grade air compressor valued at $200 was stolen from the Keep Cool Radiator Shop on North I Street Wednesday, police reported.

The compressor was left outside the shop until repairs on it could be made. There are no suspects.

Separate mail into local and out-of-town bundles to speed up handling.

Lines grew long and longer but moved fairly fast as people waited to mail Christmas packages at United Parcel Service in Dublin yesterday.

Post offices' holiday gift

T'is the season of gift-giving and sending good cheer, and the lines at the local post offices are growing by the day.

To help ease some of the congestion at postal windows, the Livermore, Pleasanton and Dublin offices will be open on Saturdays. Dublin and Pleasanton will be open Saturday, Dec. 10 and 17, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Livermore will be open Dec. 10 and 17, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and on Christmas Eve, 9 a.m. to noon.

None of the Valley post offices will be open late evenings. Regular hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Long lines are the order of the day, postal workers say, especially on Mondays. "But we hope the Saturday hours will alleviate some of the heavy Monday traffic," said a worker in Pleasanton.

Post offices say they do not have special windows or special lines for holiday mailers. They say it will help the mailing process if people will bundle cards, all facing same direction, into "out of town" and "in town" groups, and tie them with a strong rubberband.

Stark and the U.S. prisoners in Mexico

WASHINGTON — As you enter the office of Representative Pete Stark here the first thing you see is a round, blue rug — maybe 10 feet in diameter — with the words "United States of America" curved along the top, the Great Seal of the United States in the Center and Stark's name curved along the bottom.

The rug was made — by a process called hooking — for Stark by six American prisoners in a jail in Mexico.

The story of why a bunch of prisoners were sitting around making a momento for a politician is not a pleasant one.

It involved torture and extortion amid bureaucratic indiffernece and heartbreaking delays.

It started in March, 1974, when two complained to Stark that their sons — arrested on drug charges in Mexico had been tortured with cattle prods on arrest and had been denied access to lawyers and the U.S. Embassy.

At first the cases were charges were treated as "cases," the kind of complaitnt congressman get all the time — generally about bureaucratic delays.

Stark assigned the complaints to a district case worker.

Eventually though, somebody in Washington began to notice a pattern. By that time there were other complaints coming in from parents in Southern California.

Said Edie Wilkie, now Stark's administrative assistant, but formerly his specialist in foreign relations, "We started sending letters to (Secreatary of State) Henry Kissinger saying 'Look what's going on here?"

Wilke said Kissinger assured Stark there was no problem.

"He said Mexico's our friend," Wilke said.

But there clearly was a problem. By that time some parents who had sons and daughters in Mexican jails had formed a group. They provided Stark with a list of families affected, and Stark's stafff drew up a questionaire and mailed it to each of those families.

That questionaire formed the beginning of what was to become a mound of documents in Stark's office of exhaustive affidavits written and signed by scores of prisoners and their families, fiances and friends,.

The stories those tell have already been quoted in newspapers and magazines across the country and have been expanded upon on television's "Sixty Minutes."

In some cases they sound like something out of a "B" movie. But in most cases they have been verified.

One woman described how her husband was cattle-prodded while standing in a shower.

"Every time they touched it to him his hair would almost stand on end," she said.

She then went on to describe her own experience. One of the arresting officers "started pulling ... on my (earring) and pulled it quite hard which hurt and kept doing this slowly trying to get me to talk. Fortunately the earring was a hoop and it broke open. Before he could get the other earring ... I grabbed it and threw it away."

Torture involved every part the human body.

There were threats of "going for a ride." There were threats from lawyers that only an immediate $10,000 could save a first time offender — accused of possessing a gram of cocaine — from a 60-year term.

Or in one case, from a mysterious death.

One batch of affidavits describes in compelling detail a scheme of one lawyer frequently recommended by the embassy who would get up to $26,600 of a family in return for a promise get their son freed. He generally failed to provide any service at all (later disappeared).

Other kinds of complaints turned out to be not against specific Mexican officials or to involve implications of decscrimination against Americans but simply to reflect the Mexican system.

In Mexico it is legal to:

- Incarcerate a suspect for a full year without a trial;
- Conduct trials without trials with witnesses or juries, but just through submission of written evidence to a judge.
- Hold newly-arrested prisoners incommunicado for three days,.
- Charge prisoners for supplies, such as beds, toilet paper and clothes. As to the latter practice, Stark notes the Mexican system actually works pretty well for Mexican prisoners, because their families can bring in the necessities.

But, by all accounts, there is little uniformity in the prices, and there are widespread charges that Americans are ripped off.

One newspaper story this week told of a wealthy American prisoner who wants to remain in Mexico rather than be shipped to a U.S. prison because he can buy his way out of work, receive frequent conjugal visits and otherwise enjoy a good life. (The article did not note that the prisoner also faces othercharges in the U.S. and is not likely to return when he completes his sentence.)

Wilke grants most of the prisonerS are probably guilty as charged: of possessing small amounts of cocaine.

"But they're first offenders," she said.

"Most of them were pretty dumb. They'll tell you that themselves. They were maybe a some fraternity guy going down to get some dope for the frat or something like that."

A few appear to be innocent victims of the transgressions of their travelling companions.

At any rate, it was the basic differnences between the Mexican and American prison systems that there was no way to resolve the conflicts other than to simply exchange prisoners.

So, after years of study, piles of tense communication between Stark's office and the State Department, months of negotiations and a few more months of legislative delay in approving the resulting prisoner exchange treaty, the U.S. prisoners are coming home.

The first plane arrived yesterday in San Diego and another follows soon. There will be about 240 home before Christmas and more in January. Then more will become eligible each month.

Most of the returnees — having already served more than one-third of their sentences — will, under the terms of the treaty and American law, be eligible for parole.

New energy field

Geothermal is another source of potential energy LLL is studying. The Lab has constructed a prototype turbine powered by hot-water deposits contained in underground reservoirs.

This is not as plentiful a source as coal or oil shale, Sewell pointed out, and leads to problems with corrosion on machinery. Deposits in the Salton Sea in Southern California, where LLL is currently conducting research, are thought to be the largest geothermal resource in the nation.

Solar power is a largely untapped resource, due mainly to the fact that technology to easily utilize it is not available. Sewell said 600 times as much solar energy falls on the U.S. as is used.

One year's worth of sunshine on a square foot of land produces solar energy equal to $1.75 in oil, he said.

Innocent plea by deputy

James W. Patterson, a 10-year veteran of the Alameda County sheriff's department, yesterday pleaded not guilty to 31 counts of burglary, arson and attempted assault in connection with a rash of fires in Livermore early Sunday morning.

Patterson, 38, was arrested on Old Altamont Road about 1:30 a.m. Sunday after Livermore police spotted him driving a white pick-up truck resembling a vehicle suspected of involvement with fires that night at the truck scales at Interstate 580, two abandoned houses nearby and a plastics manufacturing plant.

When police confronted him, Patterson allegedly tried to ram the patrol car. Five loaded weapons; three pistols, a shotgun and a rifle were also found in his possession, according to police.

Municipal Court Judge Mark L. Eaton yesterday ordered Patterson's case continued to Dec. 15 pending the results of medical observation of the suspect at Fairmont Hospital this week.

He has been released on his own recognizance.

Livermore trio file for council

LIVERMORE — The race for three city council seats started officially yesterday, with the first three filings.

Mayor Helen Tirsell, Councilman John Staley and Gurnam Sidhu, who is a Lawrence Livermore Lab physicist, filed nomination papers.

A register voter of the city may file for one of the three positions between now and Dec. 29, during working hours, at city hall.

CHP nabs Pleasanton rape suspect

PLEASANTON — Lawmen arrested an alleged juvenile rapist in Bakersfield yesterday afternoon following a reported attack upon a Pleasanton housewife earlier in the day.

According to the investigating Pleasanton police, the suspect was taken into custody by the California Highway Patrol and news of the arrest was received here about 4:15 p.m.

The victim, a resident of the Jensen tract area, told police she knew her attacker and said he lived nearby. He is believed to have fled the area in her car.

After returning home from a shopping trip, the alleged rape victim said the youth was waiting for her at her home. He threatened her with a knife, robbed her of $51 and raped her, according to her statement to police.

Inmate flees from Santa Rita

Alameda County sheriff's deputies reported yesterday afternoon they had not recaptured an inmate who escaped from a medium-security area of Santa Rita jail that morning.

Reported missing was Charles R. Robinson, 25, of Oakland, awaiting trial in Superior Court on charges of armed robbery.

Robinson was reported to have cut a window screen in Barracks Four and was last seen about 7 a.m. heading west toward Interstate 680.

Burglary suspect deal

Rex Vandesteene Brown of Reston, Va. said the IBM 5100 computer, owned by Decisions and Designes, Inc. of McLean, Va., was taken from his locked station wagon parked on the east side of the motel parking lot.

Police discovered that a burglar who broke into a camper parked nearby had apparently left his wallet with full identification in the vehicle.

Detective Dave Hollander contacted an acquaintance of the suspect and told him that a theft of such magnitude would draw a great deal of attention from police. Additionally, the unit would be hard to fence since only 20 were made and it is easily identifiable.

Later that day, two persons brought the computer to police headquarters where it was examined and found to be in good shape.

No arrests were made.

Layman's law lectures set

Need a lawyer? Are you completely clear about the legal aspects involved in a real estate transaction, or a divorce? Are you sure of your rights and liabilities for the contract that you just signed? If you were to die suddenly, are your affairs in order?

Amador Adult Education plans a six-week lecture series on Law for the Layman at Amador Valley High School beginning Jan. 3, 1978. The class will meet on six consecutive Mondays from 7 until 9 p.m. There is no fee for the course, but students . are strongly encouraged to purchase the text book, written by attorney John Paul Hanna, which accompanies the lectures. Enrollment will be limited to 24 students.

The instructor for the series is Daniel Wright. Wright is a graduate of the University of California, Hastings College of Law.

Subject of the first lecture will be the "whens" and "whys" pertaining to the retaining of a lawyer and the "hows" for effectively choosing one in addition to preparation for your first meeting with him or her.

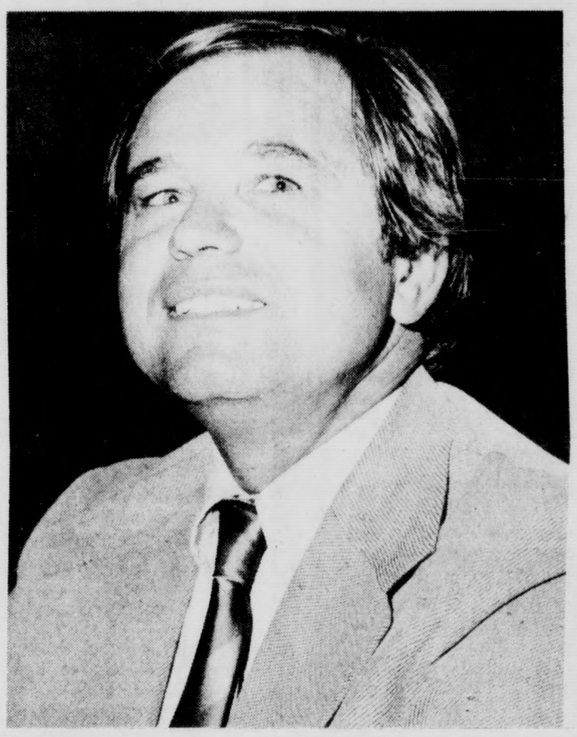
Wright advises that the course is not designed to take the place of a lawyer. Rather, the course is designed only to inform the citizen of current events which are occuring in the law which may affect him or her.

Pre-registration for this class and all others will continue through this afternoon. Signups will be taken at the Amador Adult Education offices in the Amador Valley High School parking lot.

Amador Adult Education will also be offering a class in sign language.

This skill is being used to help communicate with the deaf, help children who can hear, but are without speech because of neurological or other reasons, and children with learning disabilities of all kinds may be taught sign language in a total communication approach.

The class will be held on Thursdays, starting Jan. 5 from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. at Pleasanton Greens.



Supt. Bruce Newlin. . .
. . .larger district offer?

Rumors persist

Is schools' chief leaving?

The teachers association in the Norwalk-La Mirada Unified School District reportedly was circulating memos to district teachers Thursday saying Dr. Bruce Newlin would be selected as the next superintendent.

A previously unconfirmed report to The Times Wednesday claimed Newlin, superintendent of the Amador and Pleasanton school districts, would soon announce his resignation to accept the top position with the 25,000-student Los Angeles County district.

Norwalk-La Mirada is known to be seeking a superintendent and a district spokesman said yesterday he believed the search had been narrowed to "two current superintendents in Northern California."

Newlin told The Times Wednesday he was "perfectly happy here and have made no commitments elsewhere."

Yet, he said he had been contacted by "several school districts" in California in the last year and "had talked to some school boards and screening committees."

Norwalk-La Mirada's former superintendent, Dr. Maury Ross, resigned in September to accept the superintendency of Tustin Unified School District. Bruce Butler, formerly assistant superintendent for business services, is serving as interim superintendent.

A distict spokesman said there were 58 applicants for the position with that number being screened to 12 for interviews. He opined that the search committee, made up of the seven-member school board, had probably checked into the home districts of the two finalists, both reportedly from Northern California.

Original target date for bringing a new superintendent in was this month but, according to the spokesman, that has been set back to January.

The board-search committee of the Norwalk-La Mirada district is being assisted by consultant John Nicoll, superintendent of the Newport-Mesa School District.

Newlin is in his fourth year with the Amador and Pleasanton school districts, having come here from the superintendent's position with the school district in Lancaster.

The local districts have approximately half the number of students as the Norwalk-La Mirada Unified district.

Chabot memorial fund set

Directors of the Chabot College Foundation have established a memorial for the late Steven Hill, son of Dr. and Mrs. David Hill of Moraga.

Dr. Hill is a counselor and psychology instructor at the college.

Steven was 22 at the time of his death last September. He was graduated from the University of California at Berkeley with a major in physics and was employed by Hughes Aircraft in Southern California.

Directors of the Foundation will determine how the memorial fund will be used. The Foundation, a non-profit corporation chartered by the State of California, accepts donations and solicits and raises money for scholarships and loans to Chabot College students.

Among other services to the college, the Foundation last year awarded 10 scholarships totaling $1,000. Gifts to the Foundation are tax deductible.

Arroyo High '62 class plans January reunion

Attention all Arroyo High School Class of 1962 graduates!

Your class is having its 15-year reunion Jan. 21, 1978, at Willow Park Country Club in Castro Valley.

Anyone with information, such as addresses of Arroyo High alumni, should contact either Nancy White Grundel at (415) 471-9040 or Linda Wang Ornellas at (415) 447-4316.

The reunion at Willow Park Country Club will begin at 7 p.m. on Jan. 21. Gene Gibney Hill is publicity chairman.

Wells jazz band to perform in S.F.

DUBLIN— The 25-member Wells Intermediate School jazz band will perform at a conference of state educators scheduled Saturday at the Civic Auditorium in San Francisco.

The Wells band will play for delegates to the Association of California School Administrators (ACSA) and California School Boards Association (CSBA) conferences.

Board members and administrators from Valley districts are expected to be in attendance.

Wells Intermediate School will hold its annual Winter Holidays Concert Thursday, Dec. 15 at the school on Penn Drive.

The chorus of Sally Sullivan and the band, directed by Jerry Lapinski, will perform.

The concert begins at 8 p.m. and admission is free.

Barbs

There's nothing wrong with today's music that a little harmony wouldn't do a lot to remedy.

Some people are so preoccupied with avoiding sinning that they have no time left over to do any good.

Priest against parochial school

Father Cloutier further stated that he personally does not favor such a school at this time because he does not consider it "a wise thing to do" considering the "financial burden" it would place on the local parish, to support such a school. He estimates that it would cost families between $600 and $850 per child to attend.

He said that of the 210 signatures on the petitions, only about 75 individuals could be accounted for as members of the parishes in question, and when he asked one man who signed the petition why he favored a school, the man replied that he thought he was signing a petition for a new hospital in the area.

Father Cloutier said that when he came to St. Augustine's parish 13 years ago, building a parochial school was the "first thing on my priority list. The people opposed it, so I dropped it." But because of the state of the economy, he said, it is not now an appropriate time to build such a school.

Another problem foreseen by Father Cloutier would be a shortage of religious teachers to staff a school. In order to pay fair wages to lay teachers, he said, the financial burden would be "very very qreat" and would have to be borne by the parents, and would exclude children from lower income families. Or the parishes would have to raise the money for salaries.

He said he is not in favor of such a school building program, "but if the situation changed, I might change my mind ... if people favor it and if it is an inter-parochial school with two or three parishes behind it, supporting it."

Father Cloutier said he is encouraging families of his parish to respond by sending their questionnaires back to the Diocese, and "if it turns out that is what the parishioners want, I will help, no doubt."

Gov. Brown names Mori

Governor Brown has named Assemblyman Floyd Mori (p-Pleasanton) as a California delegate to the upcoming White House conference on balanced national growth and economic development. He was the only California legislator named as a delegate.

The three-day conference, scheduled to open Jan. 29. was called to discuss current economic and environmental issues and make recommendations to President Carter.

Mori said he was looking forward to the conference because "We're still seeking ways in the California Legislature to strike a balance between sound economic policies and adequate protection of the environment and the entire nation can learn many valuable lessons from recent California experiences."

Legal opinion

PLEASANTON — Tired of the same old birth announcements in the greeting card shops?

Attorneys Patty and Alan Grossman were, so when Patty gave birth to their first son recently, she typed up an original birth announcement.

It's on a numbered 26 - line legal form under the heading "Grossman, Grossman and Grossman" from the home address and is dated "Case No. 1, Notice of birth."

It notifies one and all that "this matter having come on regularly for labor and delivery on Dec. 3, 1977, OB Department, Valley Memorial Hospital, Livermore, California, and coaching having been duly performed by Alan Grossman, hereinafter called father, aka (also known as) Daddy, and evidence of contractions and other pain and suffering having been exhibited by Patty L. Grossman, hereinafter called Mama, it is herby announced and decreed:

1. Baby Grossman shall hereinafter by known as Joel Louis Grossman; 2. said baby weighing 7 pounds, 5½ ounces; 3. said baby born at 10:27 a.m.; 4. said baby shall hereinafter be duly cared for by the abovementioned parents in consideration of love and affection.

"It is so ordered."

Ski trips planned

New offices

The Valley Volunteer Bureau is now situated in new offices at 519 Kottinger in Pleasanton, formerly known as the City of Pleasanton police training facility. Mayor Bob Philcox, left, is shown accepting the $1 check to cover lease of the facility to the bureau for the next year. Presenting the check is Al Fischer, vice chairman of the VVB board, and Pat Connolly, VVB office staff, who holds a copy of the lease. (Times photo)

Patience pays off

Motorists in a long convoy which had to slow down to 25 miles per hour on Interstate 680 between I - 580 and Bernal Ave. yesterday because a California Highway Patrol car would not let them pass may have wondered, between their gnashing teeth, what it was all about.

Was there a radioactive truck up ahead being convoyed? Were there reports of a sniper on the freeway? Had Martians parked their UFO's in a field near the road?

There was no vehicle ahead of the patrol car and the feeling kept getting eerier as the lead car, a Mercedes Benz, tried to go out around the CHP car. The policeman wouldn't let the driver do it.

Then, just as mysteriously as it had begun, the CHP car turned off the flashing read and blue lights and accelerated off the freeway at the Bernal Ave. exit.

Did the officer get strange signals from outer space, telling him to relent his curtailment of the drivers? A Times reporter with a nose for news, reversing the usual procedure, gave pursuit to the CHP car — all within the legal speed limit, of course.

The reporter caught up with the cop at the Enco service station on Main Street and learned the freeway travelers indeed had just missed a close encounter of some kind.

PG&E crews working 1.5 miles south of Bernal Avenue — below where the convoy finally sped up again — dangled live power lines across the road as part of a repair job. CHP was keeping the folks back at a respectful distance until the crews could get it back to together again.

The reporter's blood pressure finally dropped 15 points back to normal.

Prices rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices rose 0.7 percent in November as the cost of food continued to climb at a rapid rate, the Labor Department said today.

The wholesale price increase was smaller than the 0.8 percent gain in October, but it was still enough to contribute substantially to inflation.

Farm products rose 3 percent in cost for the month after a 2.4 percent rise in October.

Deadlocked Congress

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Everyone seems to have a theory on why Congress is deadlocked on so many issues this session. But no one seems to know what to do about it.

The various theories include changes in Congress, particularly the House, which have lessened the power of the leadership, and the fact that some tough issues that have been around for a while have come to a head this session.

Rep. Barber B. Conable Jr. of New York, a senior House Republican, suggests that "the issues that we've got to deal with really are sticky ones. As the old saying goes, if they were easy, we'd have dealt with them long ago."

However one tries to explain it, there is widespread agreement that the first half of the 95th Congress may be known more for what it hasn't been able to do than for its accomplishments.

Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., is a second-term congressman, a status that once was a guarantee of anonymity. But he never accepted the axiom that junior House members are rarely seen and never heard. He helped organize 80 moderates and liberals among the younger members into a bloc that wields considerable influence.

"A deal would have been cut on energy long ago if it had been left to the old guard," said Moffett in a brief interview during a break in the deliberations of the Senate-House conference committee which has made little progress in trying to reach a compromise on the non-tax portions of the energy legislation.

Despite the deadlock, Moffett contends Congress deserves credit for facing the energy problem.

"Two years ago, there was total paralysis in this town on energy," he said.

Conable talked about House reforms and noted that "one committee chairman used to be able to speak for his committee with some confidence back during the days of unquestioned seniority and autocratic rule. Nowadays, he has to nurture the opinions not only of his subcommittee chairmen, but even of the rebellious and ambitious young men who make up his rank and file."

Energy and Social Security are two highly visible issues on which Congress has remained deadlocked, and legislators managed only this week to resolve a four-month-old battle over abortion. No simple theory applies to any of them.

Abortion is a highly volatile, emotional issue which has plagued Congress since the Supreme Court ruled that state laws flatly prohibiting abortions were unconstitutional violations of an individual's right of privacy.

That ruling and a subsequent decision that the government had no constitutional obligation to pay for abortions left the volatile question of the use of federal funds squarely in the hands of Congress.

Another question on which feelings run very strong is whether the federal government should regulate the price of natural gas. Deregulation is not a new issue.

The pro-and anti-deregulation forces have been fighting since 1954, when the Supreme Court ruled that the government could set prices for natural gas.

The year the court issued its ruling, Congress voted to strip the government of authority to set gas prices. But Dwight D. Eisenhower vetoed the bill.

That was the last time the deregulation forces prevailed on Capitol Hill. Last year, the Senate voted to drop government price controls while the House voted to keep them. The election-year session was coming to a close and no attempt was made to reach a compromise.

Legislation to deal with financial problems in the Social Security System has run into the political reality that no one wants to push for a substantial tax increase as an election year approaches.

Most cases come down to issues that were never easy to resolve, to traditional political pressures and to a changing membership that prizes independence above party loyalty.

"It's politically wise to be viewed as an independent or maverick," said Moffett. "But it makes it much more difficult to govern."

Business vs. labor reform act

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It's been a good year all in all, said the man from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, citing its successes on legislation before a 95th Congress that "we didn't expect to be so non-liberal."

But now it faces its biggest test in years, the Labor Reform Act of 1977, a bill it calls "a fraud on the American people" and a "power grab by the labor unions," even at the expense of employees.

The house passed the bill October 6 by a vote of 257-163. The chamber claims the better judgment of U.S. representatives was compromised by union pressure, money and reminders they wouldn't forget at election time.

It now seeks to defeat the bill in the Senate. The unions won in the House because "it was a power play based on their political clout," said Robert Thompson, a Greenville, S.C., attorney who heads the chamber's effort.

Labor leaders respond with the cry, "Remember J. P. Stevens." In 15 cases the National Labor Relations Board concluded that Stevens, a large textile concern, violated labor laws. It has been fined more than $1 million.

"The unions did a great job tying in with the J. P. Stevens horror story," said Thompson. "J. P. Stevens is the most damaging thing we have to deal with. It's an example of an employer getting out of line."

But, he maintained, "The Stevens case is a smokescreen," a public relations effort that beclouds the real issues.

High on the list of what the chamber says are the important issues is what it calls "steamroller" or "quicky" elections. Most elections to choose or reject a union would be held within 15 days after the union petitions.

"They're saying that if they can't get a quick election in a legal campaign the employer will be able to dissuade at least half the voters from voting the union in," said Thompson.

He claims close to 50 per cent of cases are lost by the unions, even through the average election today comes 30 days after the petition. Within 15 days, he says, many employers cannot get the facts before their workers.

If the union has cards from more than 50 per cent of employees within those 15 days it wins. But if it does not, it does not lose; it may be allowed an additional 30 days before the required election, and probably another 30 after that.

The chamber suggests this means the law is for the benefit of the unions — not employees.

"Obviously," said Richard Lesher, who heads the chamber, "these provisions are designed to aid union organizers rather than employees. Otherwise, why should the time period be longer when the unions have fewer membership cards?

The legislation also calls for expanding the presidentially appointed five-member board to seven members with seven year terms. The chamber calls this "packing." It feels the new members would tend to be prounion.

It believes also that the threat of government-imposed penalities against employers, especially small ones, would effectively discourage them from showing their side of the story. Fear of them, said Thompson, might preclude any fight on the employer's apart.

"The thrust of this effort is at small business," he said. "If the issues are put to a vote and they lose, they run the risk 18 months later of being liable to fines they cannot afford."

"The little guy would be killed if he couldn't pay," he said, arguing that "if this bill becomes law it will have the full force of government for unionization and will lead in five years to 50 per cent of the labor force."

Unions, he said, have been losing members and they want to get them back, and so have adopted the notion that "the solution to all problems lies in the law-making process. "It's a power grab," he said.

Society will recognize, he said, that this is "an effort to change the basic labor philosphy under the guise of reform, and that it's the wrong direction. People are not in sympathy with a legislative effort."

Said Thompson: "It would result in a society consumed by laws and lawyers and a businessman wouldn't have a chance."

U.S. Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., says the act is necessary because the current law has deficiencies. Unreformed, the present act has "become a legalized mechanism for suppressing workers' desire to organize."

The decision is likely to come from Congress in January.

Signs of energy compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — After four days of inaction, Senate members of a divided conference committee today gave the first serious signs toward compromise on the natural gas portion of President Carter's energy plan.

The Senate conferees voted 15 to 3 for a resolution declaring their intention to work toward a compromise on a natural gas pricing policy, one of the toughest provisions in the Carter energy package.

In another modest sign of momentum for the president's program, a second group of congressional negotiators on Wednesday approved a tax on fuel-wasting cars.

Among the conferees working on non-tax matters, some House members and senators have argued that Congress could best aid consumers by passing no natural gas bill this year.

That would leave the current federal price ceiling of $1.46 per thousand cubic feet in effect, instead of the $1.75 lid urged by Carter or a lifting of controls approved by the Senate.

After Senate members approved the resolution, the conferees adjourned until Monday.

Laying it out

This is no new game played in traffic, but serious business as city employee Geoff Rummler places raised markers down Main Street indicating left turn lanes. Traffic engineer Ken Lamb expects the lanes to be finished this morning. The lines of regular markers, costing $1.20 each, are interspersed with reflective markers, costing $2.25 a piece, for night sight. Expensive, but effective, according to Lamb. He hopes the lanes, in conjunction with the traffic signals expected to begin operating Monday , will ease downtown traffic.

BART's $600,000 TV system in stations

OAKLAND — A $600,000 project to equip eight BART stations with closed circuit, remote control television sets was approved by the transit district's Board of Directors Thursday, despite pleas from the National Federation of the Blind to delay action.

The action authorized the first phase of a project that will eventually give 20 stations throughout the district the capability to be monitored by television, eliminating the need for station agents.

The project is part of BART's plan to increase service permanently to seven days a week.

With the use of remotely staffed stations, said BART spokesman Mike Healy, expansion of service will be financially easier since extra staff won't have to be hired.

But two spokesmen from the National Federation of the Blind told the BART board the cost-saving project might be to the detriment of the handicapped community, particularly the blind.

"We are very much conerned about this proposal," said Lawrence Marcelino, vice president of the Northern California chapter of the organization.

"BART stations are so vast and complicated...I wish you would try blindfolding yourselves and try to find your way about the stations. I'd like to ask for a postponement on your decision until we can look at a report in detail."

Donald Queen, president of the Transportation Committee of the Alameda County chapter of the NFB, also said he had "very serious doubts about the system. This is such a drastic change we couldn't support it unless we had a chance to study it in detail."

Both men claimed they weren't notified of previous BART-sponsored meetings on the subject, which were attended by a number of other handicapped groups.

The most vocal of those groups was the Alameda County-based Center for Independent Living.

Muni airport unit ponders fencing facility

LIVERMORE — Airport Advisory Committee members will be looking at a survey on fencing around the airport at its monthly luncheon meeting Monday, noon, at the Red Baron Restaurant.

The survey went out to airport users along with the December billings and asks them about the desirability of extending existing woven wire fence, installing barbed wire fencing along Kittyhawk Road or possibly installing card-operated barrier gates at main ramp entrance. Or respondents may feel the airport is okay as it is. Another alternative lissted on the survey is to wait on any such move until federal or state participating funds are available.

Charles Brown was named to the committee this week by a unanimous vote of the city council to replace Dr. Darryl Mailander, who did not to be reappointed. Thomas Betzer was named to the other seat by a 3-2 vote over incumbent John Kerekes. Councilmen Dale Turner and Glen dahlbacka voted for Kerekes, while council members Helen Tirsell, Marshall Kamena and John Staley voted for Batzer.

Kerekes had served two full three-year terms on the committee, since 1971. The city policy is that a person may serve on a committee a maximum of eight years.

Lab's layoffs

When the "Friends of The Earth" and other self - appointed saviors of the land decided that General Electric's nuclear research laboratory at Vallecitos must be closed because of its proximity to a potential earthquake fault, the campaign was directed at "serving the interests of people, REAL people."

Which makes us wonder what those things are that were being laid off this week, cut back by GE because the Vallecitos Lab is no longer able to function.

The Val Lab's employees think they are people, real people. And they had real jobs, performing real service for industry and medicine ... the customers for much of what the Vallecitos Lab turned out.

Now those people are out of work, and the future of one very fine nuclear research facility is bleak. Which makes us wonder what the future holds for this Valley's multi - billion - dollar nuclear industry.

Which is of course just what Friends of The Earth want. They would like to close down all nuclear research, anywhere, for any purpose. They see that as the enemy of all mankind; they see themselves as the champions of all life.

Try telling that to the 500 people employed at Vallecitos Lab. Try convincing those dedicated scientists that the work they were performing was not meaningful, vital, even life - saving.

It is the same story at PG&E's Diablo Canyon power plant ... a source of much - needed domestic power ready to help meet our energy crisis, but shut down tight because "a hitherto unknown earthquake fault has been discovered close by the plant's nuclear reactor."

When the anti - nuclear people campaign tested the voters with their campaign of fear, the people of California rejected them, flat out. Now they are trying a new campaign, tied to the one - in - a - million chance of an earthquake, of all things.

When will people, real people, finally decide its our earth, too.

A tax quiz

What's the best way to devise "property tax relief" for home owners? Do you think a boost in the assessment exemption from $1750 to $2500 would be if meaningful? If the state uses available dollar reserves to pick up "most of" the county welfare burden, do you think the supervisors will then cut their own property tax levy by one -third?

What do you think of doubling the present renter tax exemption? As a business owner, would a phase - out of the bothersome inventory tax over the next five years be acceptable? Even if replaced with higher corporate taxes?

Those are some of the questions which a conference committee of legislators bounced off California taxpayers this week. (A more detailed list appeared on the front page of Wednesday's Times.) Now those legislators need your response.

"We have to hear from our constituents before we can go much further," says Assemblyman Floyd Mori, a member of the powerful conference committee and a representative from this Valley. He urges his constituents — most of whom are homeowners in the upper tax brackets — to respond now, either directly to one of his offices, or through this newspaper. We will pass along all such comments received here.

You can bet that those who rent, those on welfare, and those who champion the cause of "the forgotten Californian" will be heard from. They always are.

Right now, we have an excellent opportunity to make ourselves heard on the question of property tax reform. Assemblyman Boatwright of Contra Costa County, Senator Holmdahl of Oakland and Assemblyman Mori are all members of that powerful tax conference committee.

If we would keep home ownership from becoming the luxury of the very rich, or the welfared poor, then this could be our one big chance.

Hoilday driving

Are you ready for the upcoming holidays?

If you prepare in advance for holiday travel, points out the National Automobile Club, your chances of returning home safely will be pretty good.

Start a check list in advance of your departure and add to the list from time to time as items come to mind. Then you won't have to worry about details at the last minute.

Give your car a thorough check ... tires, breaks, exhaust system, gas and the oil, even the spare tire.

Also make sure that you're in good condition to go traveling. The safety of you and your family may well depend on your physical and mental condition.

Remember that traffic accidents, even during the holiday period, can be reduced. A defensive driver is a safe driver. A defensive driver does not mean that a driver should be timid and frightened, but it does mean that he should be cautious and alert to possible accident situations.

Defensive driving techniques include keeping your speed consistent with the traffic flow, looking for an escape route for your car in the event trouble occurs, following at least one car length for every ten miles an hour of speed, and trying safely to view as much of the road as possible when driving.

FOCUS/Enrollment declines

In the same boat

The word Wednesday night that student enrollment in the Pleasanton Joint School District could fall by some 960 in the next three years, with a resultant loss of $1.5 million in average daily attendance (ADA) monies is a sobering prospect.

Should the projection hold, and school board members are fully cognizant that Dr. Dave Carlisle's figures have been right near the mark in the past, the decline would mark initial descent from a student enrollment plateau of recent years.

The prospective slide would follow the pattern in the Murray School District, which has been dropping over the past five years.

The next to experience a severe decline could well be the Amador Valley Joint High School District.

Livermore is also feeling the no-growth, student decline tremors as is tiny Sunol Glen.

Yet, just a few miles away, San Ramon continues to experience explosive growth — to the point where portables and year-round schools are seen as immediate necessities and double sessions a likelyhood by the fall of 1978.

It is obvious that planners and no-growth advocates have had startlingly different impacts on these neighboring areas.

Pleasanton will face up to its student enrollment decline problem by forming a committee of parents, teachers and administrators in January.

But the hand-writing may already be indelibly written.

Should there be such a decline (960 or more K-8 students) in such a short period of time, the committee will have to consider the possibility of closing a school.

To review for a moment, assistant superintendent for business services Doug Rose told trustees and audience members Wednesday the sharpest declines could come at Valley View (down 240 by the fall of 1980), Walnut Grove (over 200) and Harvest Park (200).

Other projected drops are: Pleasanton, 170; Fairlands, 140; Alisal, 100; Vintage Hills, 100.

A decline of over 300 students (total) at Valley View and Vintage Hills would amount to one-third of the existing student population. The fact that Vintage Hills is portable in structure could be an ace in the hole.

Whatever the Pleasanton committee ultimately recommends to the board, they will have had the experience of neighboring Murray to assist them. Murray's two schools "on the Pleasanton side of Highway 580" (Lydiksen on Highland Oaks Drive and Donlon on Dorman Road) have both held up well under the enrollment decline.

When the committee is formed in January, there should be some consideration given to having liaisons to the Amador and Murray districts. Because, while Pleasanton must come up with its own specific solutions, all three are in the very same boat.

Unwed mothers aided

Editor, The Times:

As a long time resident of Southern Alameda County, and as a pediatrician interested in adolescent medicine, I cannot help but be dismayed and must disagree with Mrs. Valerie Raymond's recent comments on teen sexuality and Planned Parenthood.

There is no doubt in my mind that in the absence of adequate education in human sexuality, Planned Parenthood is filling a vacuum that is vital to society. The lack of information on contraception for teens can have disastrous implications. It is obvious that an unwed teen mother who has a baby faces drastic changes in her life and often must drop out of school, abandon career plans, and become a welfare recipient.

The young people who participate in Planned Parenthood's program have already made their decision regarding sexual activity. Planned Parenthood tries to have them accept the responsibilities involved with that decision.

Let's give credit where credit is due — Planned Parenthood deserves praise for the job it is doing in helping prevent teen pregnancies and unwanted children.

SAM HAYAKAWA

Call it bigotry

By U.S. Senator S. I. Hayakawa

You're a 21-year-old black woman just out of secretarial school and you've beaten out heavy competition for a job with a well-established law firm. Were you hired because of your qualifications or because you happened to have the right skin color?

You'r a male Mexican-American in your 30s, and you have applied for a factory job. You are well-qualified, but management turns you down because there are already enough "Chicanos" on the payroll.

You're a college senior applying to a graduate program at the University of California at Berkeley. You are rejected because you don't happen to be a member of any discernible minority group.

These are the common and pernicious results of "affirmative action." I call them bigotry.

It doesn't matter whether this bigotry is called a "quota system," a "minority ratio plan," a "goal," a "timetable," or "numerical representation." What it all adds up to is discrimination based on race, violating the 14th Amendment to the Constitution (equal protection under the law). It is in total violation of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

We are using regulatory authority to treat some people more favorably, and others less favorably, because of the shade of their skin, the nationality of their parents, or the gender of their chromosomes.

This past June, I asked the Senate to deny Federal funds for Health, Education and Welfare and Labor Department programs which mandate these "affirmative action" plans.

HEW requires its grantees to give preferential treatment in employment and admissions to members of groups which in the past have suffered from discrimination. However, I told the Senate, HEW has not seen fit to consider as minorities many ethnic and cultural groups whose members have suffered past discrimination in our society.

If your name is O'Brien or Pulaski or Slechta or Horvath or Cohen, you cannot be included in affirmative action programs, except as a victim. If my name were Heifitz or Humboldt or Hlatki, I could be denied a job, a promotion, or a place in college in favor of someone else less qualified than I whose name happens to be Hayakawa.

All this in the name of justice!

Do the American people really approve of this curious form of justice?" A recent Gallup poll reported that Americans, by a margin of 8 to 1, believe that ability, rather than preferential treatment, should be the main consideration. Among women, 82 percent feel that way, and among nonwhites, fully 64 percent agree.

I said it would be fitting if the Congress, which found the courage to enact the 1964 Civil Rights Act, would summon up the strength to reaffirm the true meaning of that hard-won law. Its meaning was that the American Republic wrote into law the fundamental decency of its people by requiring that we blind to color and sex and creed and national origin in our business dealings with each other. I maintained that HEW should be equally blind — and refuse preferential treatment for some at the expense of others.

Such a reaffirmation was not forthcoming; my amendment lost, 64 to 31.

Now, it is up to the Supreme Court to decide the case of Allan Bakke, who was denied admission to the University of California's medical school at Davis because he was of the wrong color in other words, because school authorities gave preference to other, less qualified applicants solely on the grounds of their race.

It is ironic that those who in the 1960s protested so vigorously against "institutionalized racism" are now supporting the University of California in its attempt to institutionalize racism all over again. But racism, even if glorified by the pretty term "affirmative action," is still racism.

EARL WATERS

School

Would you believe it costs California taxpayers more than $40,000 for every child educated in the public schools? That figure is based on the average ADA cost of $1300 per year for grades K through 12 and the $6,000 per year cost at the University of California. It has been rising each year and will continue to climb in the years ahead.

In the lull between passage of the new school financing measure, which will pump billions more of state money into the public school system, and the assault on various provisions of that bill through proposed amendments which can be expected next year, citizens might take time to study where it all goes.

Already many parents have decided it isn't worth the price and won't be even after the new money is poured into the schools. This accounts for the more than half million enrollment in the private schools, many of which provide better education at less cost than the public schools. With tuition as low as $2000 a year at private colleges and $600 a year at private schools, the complete K through college program totals $15,000 or less than half that of the tax supported institutions.

Currently state and local taxes are providing $10 billion annually for education. That figure will go higher. It actually is already higher since it doesn't include capital outlay or federal allocations.

A cursory review of the use of the $7.5 billion spent for the K through 12 program may explain why so many believe the public schools are doing less than an adequate job of educating the kids.

To start with, less than one third of the $3 billion of state money goes into the teaching of basic education, i.e., reading writing, mathematics, geography, history and science. From that point on the hundreds of millions are spent on various programs mandated by legislative fiat.

The list is long. So long in fact that State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson C. Riles has ruefully complained repeatedly that he wished "the Legislature would quit giving the schools programs which have nothing to do with the basic job and let us get on with educating the kids".

In truth it seems the public schools today are being asked to do everything for the kids excepting conceive them. For example, more than a quarter of a billion dollars is being spent just to feed school children, something that once was considered the parents' responsibility.

Among the many non-basic programs budgeted are such things as environmental education, educationally disadvantaged youth, training for handicapped, Indian education, bilingual and bicultural education, and farm vehicle instruction.

Special programs include those for pregnant minors, drug dependent minors, educationally retarded, emotionally disturbed and those with behavior disorders.

There are so many different programs outside of the regular school curriculum that millions are spent just planning them and millions more to study the results. Obviously not all of them, no matter how well intended, are effective. Just recently the driver education program, in existence for the past quarter century, was attacked by the insurance companies as being counter productive.

Perhaps all of these things are necessary in today's society. But one thing is certain, the school program could be shortened considerably from the 13 years it now takes from Kindergarten through high school with no curtailing of the courses. This by cutting out the time frittered away doing nothing. For example, one half of the high school years are spent in physical education and study periods, neither of which contribute to learning the basic subjects.

round the town

Are you ready for the SUPERMAN revival? Starring Marlon Brando?!

Hollywood has discovered there is money in the comic strip characters. Big money. True to the new cinematic code, the movie people are prepared to spend a fortune to, make an even bigger bundle.

Hence the all star cast for SUPERMAN. Marlon Brando is not (thank God) the lead character. Marlon will appear as the Big S's Big Daddy. For a guaranteed $1 million plus a percentage of the net, I am advised.

Lots of other big names in the super epic. Those that aren't working that comic book revival are signed up for DICK TRACY, or MANDRAKE THE MAGICIAN. There isn't a comic character worth remembering who hasn't been lined up for multi million dollar movie treatment.

Why all the big interest in comic heroes from our past?

"For one thing, we've exhausted the science - fiction thing," explains one top Hollywood hipe. STAR WARS may be the biggest money - maker in cinematic history. CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND is another in the same celestial mold. But, as the man says, there's a limit to how far Hollywood can go into space in search of the big bucks.

Which is why an old Buck by the name of Rogers may soon be zipping across the screen. He was one of the first, and the best, in my book. Buck Rogers took us children of the 40's into outer space at a time when teacher was still insisting that the moon was made of green cheese. Or, at the very least, populated by funny little green men.

Buck battled those little green men, and all the other enemies of decent earthlings. Buck did his space thing every Saturday afternoon, admission ten cents. The double bill usually included a western, probably Tom Mix doing his magic on horseback. All for the same dime.

STAR WARS is going at $3 per head. By the time SUPERMAN makes the screen, figure on $4 per ticket.

Even at that, the producers will need a bundle of paying patrons to meet the $25 million super production costs.

They would bang out those earlier BUCK ROGERS efforts, for less than $200,000 per episode. String them out over nine weeks. A finger - biting ending for every chapter, with Buck and the other good earthlings trapped by the nogoodnick space people. Kept pulling us kids back, week after week.

"But Mom, you just gotta let me see the seventh chapter of BUCK ROGERS! Last Saturday he was blown into a zillion little pieces by this green guy's space gun. You wouldn't want me to go through life thinking Buck had been cashed in by an invader from outer space, would you Mom?"

Somehow, Mom always found the necessary dime. And somehow, Buck was always pieced together by the following Saturday, with little explanation as to how he survived that space man's blast the previous week.

It didn't really matter, how Buck survived. It only mattered that he DID survive. From one crisis to the next, for nine successive Saturdays.

Psychologists would later agree that the comic characters were "a harmless release . . . an escape from the frustrations, the hunger, the hopelessness of those depression years."

Thirty years later, we're reviving Buck and Tonto and Dagwood and all the other great escape artists of the 30's and 40's. Doesn't say much for society's advance, over the last generation.

When we couldn't place our trust in men, we turned to animals. RIN TIN TIN was more than a dog, more than any human. Rin was the answer, on any given Saturday, to all of life's problems.

Just when things looked bleakest . . . like being forced inside on a rainy Sunday ... we would recreate the heroics of Rin Tin Tin. "You be the bad guy and Spot here will be Rin Tin Tin," our Sunday afternoon producer would order. But Spot was a lover, not a fighter. We would have a terrible time re - enacting even one small triumph by Spot's cinematic model.

LASSIE was more like Spot than Rin Tin Tin. Through 13 revivals, LASSIE loved her way to victory, and to stardom. Now she's being revived, once more. With Jimmy Stewart in a lead role. "Good parts are hard to find at my age," says the ageless Jimmy.

Good heroes are hard to find in any age. Which is maybe why they are bringing back Buck Rogers, Prince Valiant, even Dick Tracy.

Given the state of our real - life heroes, those comic book characters begin to look better and better.

"Since Eric Sevareid retired, I don't know what to think!"

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My 21-year-old son has left college temporarily to hitch his way cross country. He has a car and enough cash left by his grandparents to travel confortably, but he insists on hitching, and we've found no way to talk him out of it. I can't imagine why he wants to do this, but since he does, do you have any suggestions for his safety and his success? I'd hate to think of his freezing while waiting for a ride. — W.O.

DEAR W.O.: Unfortunately, in today's world, it's dangerous not only to ride with strangers but to pick up hitchhikers. I gather you've tried everyting you can to convince your son not to go this route. Since he's determined, you might warn him that he'll have better luck if he makes a sign and holds it, rather than just using his thumb. Drivers seem to be reassured knowing the hiker has a destination or goal.

If he's going to hitch on a main highway, he'll do better if he considers the driver's needs as well as his own. For example, he should not expect to be picked up if he's standing halfway up a hill. Obviously, it's too inconvenient fordrivers to stop even if they want to pick up the hitcher. For his own safety he should not stand too far out in the road or on curves. As far as women drivers, they won't present a hazard if your son is willing to defend himself against possible amorous advances.

John Melony, eastern regional director of American Youth Hostels, warns hitchers not to wear hats unless they're "hippie-style" hats. Conservative hats seem to remind drivers of mobsters or the FBI. Glasses are a big help. People seem to think hitchers with glasses are less apt to start trouble.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband travels a great deal and our two youngsters often go with him. We consider this a wonderful opportunity for learing. Lately, however, I've been frightened by the skyjackings and growing terrorism. I'm wondering if there's any way to prepare youngsters for this kind of violence, or for emergencies of any kind. They have to learn to be independent in a very dangerous world and I'm not sure just making them stay home is the right way to do it. — C.McG.

DEAR C. McG.: I agree with you. There is really no way to avoid the possibility of emergencies or violence unless you lock your children in a room. And that is no way to live. It's far better for them to maintain a sense of freedom and independence, even though our world seems to be growing more violent.

Children can be taught how to cope in unusual situations, how to think on their feet and avoid panic. Camping, scouting and hosteling all help to prepare children to be creative and to think independently. These things help them learn to solve problems in living and survival by actual experience. Such experiences in coping with danger and potential danger may serve them verywell and help them to remain calm if they're ever faced with a situation such as skyjacking or terrorism.

According to Florida State University professor, Sylvia Jacobson, who was a skyjacker's victim herself, young people were found to adapt to the stress far batter than their elders. They tended to look on it as an adventure, but to procede with caution.

I believe your children and all young people should be taught not to be foolhearty in the face of danger. Courage often means simply keeping quiet and following directions, whether one is faced with an armed attacker on the street or in a plane.

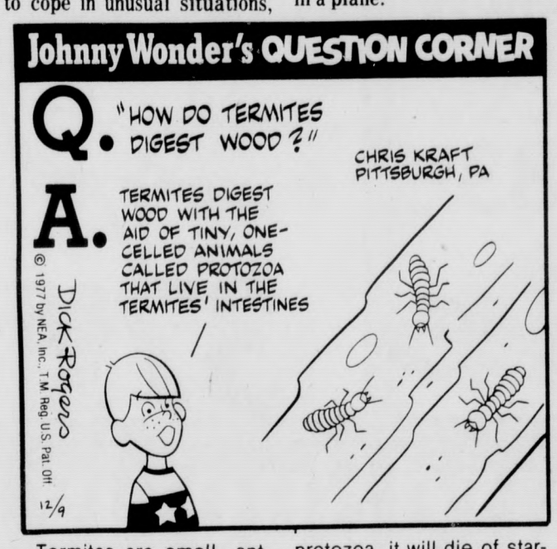
Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER



Q. "HOW DO TERMITES DIGEST WOOD?"
CHRIS KRAFT PITTSBURGH, PA
A. TERMITES DIGEST WOOD WITH THE AID OF TINY, ONE-CELLED ANIMALS CALLED PROTOZOA THAT LIVE IN THE TERMITES' INTESTINES
© 1977 by NEA, Inc. T.M. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

12/9

Termites are small, ant-like insects that live in large colonies. Termites eat nearly everything made of wood.

But, curiously enough, they cannot digest it unaided. They digest the wood with the aid of tiny, one-celled creatures called protozoa that live in the termites' stomachs.

What happens is this: The termite chews and swallows the wood, and the protozoa digest the cellulose of the wood, changing it into food that both the protozoa and the termite can use. In turn, the protozoa are assured of a steady supply of wood.

If the termite loses its protozoa, it will die of starvation, even though it continues to swallow large quantities of wood.

Termites cause much damage by eating away the woodwork of houses and other wooden structures.

But termites that live in the forest server a useful function by cleaning away dead trees, fallen branches and other dead wood.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am 66 years old and am coming to you for help. I have systemic lupus erythematosus. I had it bad from 1964 to 1969, then it went into a remission until now. I am once again on cortisone.

I would like to know what this does to the body.

DEAR READER—Your story represents an important characteristic of the disease. It tends to occur as attacks. Between such attacks, the person may appear perfectly normal. These remissions may last for years in many cases.

At the present state of knowledge about the disease, it is better to say we really don't know what causes it. Most doctors classify it as an autoimmune disease. That means the body starts reacting it its own chemicals or cells—somewhat like becoming allergic to yourself.

The disease my affect many of the body systems, including the lungs, the heart, the kidneys, muscles, joints and skin. It affects the connective tissue of the body that binds cells and organs together. The basic fiber material in connective tieeus is collagen and that is why it is usually called a collagen disease.

The symptoms may be quite vague. The patient may have indigestion, weakness, pain in the chest, in the joints or other symptoms. I hasten to point out that weakness and fatigue, which may be a prominent feature of the illness, often occur for many other reasons. Less than 10 percent of patients who have recurring fatigue have a significant medical disease, and only a tiny fraction of these have lupus.

The effects of the disease vary. It may be a very mild case, or severe. When I first started seeing this disease, we saw only the severe cases referred to a busy university medical center, and they were very sick people. When I was a resident in medicine, we had 10 cases on my service at one time, and they were all severely ill. We had such an influx because we were beginning the use of hormones for treatment, and that was a new era for the disease.

Things have changed a great deal since then, and now 90 percent of the people with lupus live at least 10 years, and many much longer. It is diagnosed much more readily now by new tests, and it is found in people from age two to 90, in both sexes, but it occurs most often in young women.

There are two forms of the disease: discoid lupus and systemic lupus erythematosis (S.L.E.). The discoid type is a skin lesion, and it usually stops at that. S.L.E. can involve almost any part of the body.

An organization, The American Lupus Society (4126 Pacific Coast Highway, Torrance, CA 90505), has been formed to stimulate research to help get more answers about lupus. There must be a half million people with the disease in the U.S. along, and there is a great need for better public understanding about it. Perhaps most important is for people to realize that many, as in your case, may lead long periods of normal life, and while the disease is often limiting, in many cases it may not be severely limiting. Rest, avoiding sunshine, and staying with the program your doctor outlines, are all important in helping provide the best opportunity for a good outcome.

Dec. 9, 1977

The year ahead could be a very adventuresome one for you. You'll gain knowledge through new experiences and contacts. Some of this may be a result of long-distrance travel.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Unless you make a game of your serious goals today, you may find them dull and pedestrian. If you can make light of them, you'll overcome.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Put aside your anxieties that one who is indebted to you won't come through. It's better than even money that your fears are groundless.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Social forums should not be used for attempting to transact business today. Chances are good that those you're clinking teacups with aren't interested.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll need more than charm and good looks to cut the mustard today. It's going to take the three big E's — Energy, Effort and Enthusiasm.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Sometimes you have an unfortunate tendency to do the right things for the wrong people. This could be one of those days.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Normally you're a plodder and will hang in there at all costs. Today you get discouraged when all it takes is a little extra push to get over the hump.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Keep your priorities in order today. Your first responsibilities are to your family, then to outsiders. You may be tempted to reverse the order.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're not too willing to put yourself out for others today. You'll want to make sure there's something in it for you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Put a lock on your purse today and hide the key. Rather than finding ways to spend money, think of ways that you can add to your resources.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Loved ones may lean on you a little heavily today and this might pique you a bit. Think of what they've done for you. You'll soon change your tune.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You may be guilty of something today very foreign to your nature — prejudging others. If you are aware of this, you certainly won'At do it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) By all means, try to avoid parasitic types today. They'll really turn you off. They're diametrically opposed to your generous nature.

North thought about bidding seven. He did have 15 high-card points and five hearts, but decided to stop at six because his suit was 10-spot high.

As for South's bidding, the game was duplicate and he decided to try to score that extra 10 points for playing in notrump.

Both decisions were correct although South did make all the tricks. On the other hand if he had been in seven he would have gone down, assuming he gave the hand the correct play.

Why did South make seven at his six notrump contract? Because he could afford to lose one heart trick. Therefore, he made the standard safety play of plunking down the ace. When West dropped the king it was a simple matter to go to dummy and finesse against East's jack.

Playing at seven the best chance to bring in the whole suit is to finesse the queen. This wins against a doubleton or tripleton king in the East hand. It loses to the actual holding of jack and two small in East and singleton king in West.

Holiday gift

Ruth Wooward of Livermore reminds everyone is to use Christmas Seals this season on their holiday mail. Ruth is Worthy advisor of Livermore Rainbow Assembly 246, one of two dozen groups volunteering time for the Lung Association fund drive.

Tips for a safe holiday

The scent of fresh evergreen, twinkling colored lights, toys scattered across the floor and parties, then more parties. Those are all joys of Christmas, but they are also the danoers.

Two persons died last Christmas in Pleasanton. Their tree caught fire, killing, burning and leaving two children orphans within an hour.

Fires and falls are the two major holiday hazards, according to the National Safety Council. Lights can short, igniting the tree. Innocent toys become an obstacle course for adults the morning after a great time.

Booze, spreader of holiday cheer, causes 50 percent of highway accidents and makes December one of the most dangerous months to be on the road.

The body can assimilate one drink per hour without noticeable effect, according to fire department statistics. Thus the department's safety information center recommends people limit themselves to that and switch to a non-alcoholic drink one hour before driving home, giving themselves a chance to sober.

And under the campaign slogan, "Fire never takes a hollDay," the Pleasanton Fire department suggests the following safety ideas:

- Place the tree far away from a fireplace, stove or any source of heat — locating it so it will not block any escape route if it falls.
- Keep the tree in a stand containing water and throw the tree away soon after Christmas when it become dry and brittle.
- Never use lights on a metallic tree and check the string carefully for shorts or bare wire before decorating.
- Buy flameproof decorations, but don't try to flameproof them yourself with a chemical coating or spray, which can be unreliable.

And one last suggestion from Pleasanton Fire Marshall Ted Klenk on what to buy the family who has everything. Early warning fire detectors are relatively inexpensive and information about them can be picked up at any local fire station in the valley.

Landmarks picked

LIVERMORE — The Heritage Preservation Committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday to make final recommendations on houses for Landmark Status.

The committee, comprised of six members from the Design Review, Heritage Guild and Beautification Committees, has been studying the list of buildings for some time now. Chief Building Inspector Herb Street said the list had been narrowed down to 18 houses still needing to be studied for designation.

The committee divided up the 18 houses and will return Tuesday with recommendations on whether or not they meet Heritag Landmark Status. The designations are necessary to bring the Landmark buildings into conformity with the General Plan. The committee's recommendations will go to the planning commission for further action.

Growth drop hits schools

If Pleasanton's ADA projections hold, the district stands to lose approximately $1.5 million "off the top", according to Superintendent Bruce Newlin.

The biggest declines projected between now and the fall of 1980 are at Valley View (down 242), Walnut Grove (228), Harvest Park (199) and Pleasanton (171).

In addition to the monies, the district could face the prospect of reducing staff. According to Doug Rose, assistant superintendent for business services, the student decline equates to 30 staff members.

However, as Rose points out, "districts are significantly restricted by law concerning the method and numbers of certificated personnel who can be terminated due to declining enrollment."

Pleasanton trustees decided Wednesday to organize a parent-teacher administrator committee in January to review the problem and report back by the end of the school year.

Murray's latest enrollment figure of 4,829 shows Donlon, a K-6 school in the Val Vista area of Pleasanton, as having the top enrollment (1,015) with Wells second (711) and Lydiksen, also in Pleasanton, third at 668.

State caviar

DAVIS (AP) — A Russian - trained scientist says the sturgeon in the Sacramento River may someday be the source of a caviar industry.

Sergei I. Doroshov, once considered the Soviet Union's leading authority on marine aquaculture, is now a professor at the University of California, Davis.

The Sacramento River's sturgeon tend to be enormous trophy size rather than adequate market size.

Doroshov says carefully monitored breeding would be required.

Parking and politics

That was the Times' assumption until a query to Livermore City Manager Bill Parness revealed the suspicion that Enoch was holding back the rent because the city council Monday night put a two - hour limit on parking in the municipal lot where some county employees and jurors park.

Yes, said Enoch, the council's action Monday did ring an alarm bell in his head, but the two - hour limit is not the issue. That can be taken care of with a permit system. But it did alert him to the need to take care of future parking needs centered around court expansion.

Parness pointed out that if the county is thinking about adding on to the court building, it must also be thinking that the much - advertised east county government center is further down the road than anyone might have imagined even a couple of months ago.

A citizens commission currently is studying where the government center, including new courtrooms, should go. Dublin, Pleasanton and Livermore all put in pitches for the location and Santa Rita is favored by some.

Meanwhile, there's the problem of where to find new parking spaces in the municipal lot, said Parness. If the city paves to the backs of First Street businesses, it could increase the spaces from 90 to 178. But that will take some kind of financing and three previous attempts at selling downtown property owners on a parking district failed.

The county, if it is going to wipe out 14 spaces, might consider leasing some land from Southern Pacific on the north side of the courts. That's where the Christmas tree lot appears each year.

The problem with that is Southern Pacific wants zoning there for 50,000 square feet of commercial buildings, said Parness. The designs for it already are off the drawing boards, he said.

Contra Costa contemplates looser, tighter horse laws

Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ — It's hard enough trying to draft a dog-keeping ordinance. But a horse-keeping law?

Assistant County Planning Director Harvey Bragdon says that's the next big project on the Planning Department's agenda. It will come up for discussion sometime next year.

"I'd prefer to take care of one ordinance at a time," said Bragdon, noting that anything concerning animals invariably causes controversy.

The county has been working on a dog ordinance for more than a year. Nothing definite has been resolved.

Bragdon says horse enthusiasts are pushing for a relaxation in regulations which prohibit some people from keeping horses, no matter how much acreage they have.

Current law states that those with an acre or more of land may keep horses on their property. But the law excludes those in areas zoned R-10 and R-15, even if they own more than an acre.

Scrapping the exclusion would seem to be relatively simple solution. Not so, says Bragdon. Ordinances are never simple; often, when one aspect of a law is relaxed, another is tightened.

For example, should a new law allow horses in additional residential areas, regulations on fencing setbacks, corral placement and manure removal might have to become stricter.

Since for every horse lover, there is an equally avid horse hater, there will have to be some trade-offs, Bragdon said.

For Bragdon, it should be a long winter — maybe longer than that judging the speed with which the dog law was drafted.

Battery case

MALIBU (AP) — The former wife of singer Bob Dylan has been accused of battery after going to an elementary school campus with three private detectives to take custody of her four children and allegedly hitting and choking a teacher.

Deputy District Attorney Ronald Carpol, who filed the misdemeanor complaint Wednesday, said he did not understand Sarah Dylan's actions in the Nov. 8 incident since she had a court order to take custody of the children.

He said officials at Point Dume Elementary School in Malibu had told Mrs. Dylan that the children would be brought to the office. But instead of waiting, he said, she and the detectives charged through the school grounds and frightened other students.

Mrs. Dylan, 38, was accompanied by the detectives when she went into a classroom and insisted that the children be turned over to her. After the teacher, 35-year-old Rex Burke, asked to see her court order before releasing the children, she began hitting and choking him, Carpol said.

Irish whip Falcons Stagg wins in ABC

Matched up, man - for - man, Foothill High School's basketball team and Sacred Heart's are the same size at nearly every position.

But size alone, as the old cliche goes, does not win basketball games — in Sacred Heart's case, quickness does, as the Irish defeated the Falcons 66-46, last night in the first round of the Amador Valley Basketball Classic in Pleasanton.

Sparked by five - foot - eight guard Matt Gallegos, Sacred Heart pnetrated Foothill's zone in a hurry. Gallegos, seemingly everywhere at once, poured in 12 points in the first quarter and also contributed several key assists and steals.

After falling behind early by eight points. Foothill hung tough and managed to pull to within five by the end of the first period.

The second quarter was different, as Sacred Heart began to dominate. Gallegos cooled off a bit, but 6-2 teammate Gus Gollindo picked up the pace, hitting for seven points. That, combined with Sacred Heart's touph inside game put the Falcons down 35-21 at the half.

By that point, Foothill had been forced to stick to a manto - man defense. As it turned out, it didn't matter what defense the Falcons played.

"They did a good job of pulling us out of a zone," said Foothill coach Tom Hansen. "They were just too quick for us. We couldn't run our offense, either."

6-3 center Tony Welch and Gollindo dominated the backboards at both ends of the court. Time and again they would get inside for easy lay - ins and tip - ins.

Mike Buckley, a 6-2 forward, was the Falcons' brightest spot. Buckley tallied 18 points, including eight of Foothill's nine points in the third quarter.

Teammate Rick Rosenbach connected on several medium range jumpers to become the only other Falcon in double figures with 11.

Gallegos finished with 17 points for the Irish. Gollindo also had 17, while Welch poured in 14.

Before last night's first game, Arroyo coach Boyd McCaslin made it sound like the Dons had an impossible task before them.

Arroyo lost two starters during the past week — 6-1 Jim Hyde with a broken arm suffered playing karate, and 5-10 John Tracy with a broken foot.

"We have a modest team at best, and now with two starters out, we're in trouble," McCaslin said.

But the Dons gave talented A. A. Stagg High a scare before succumbing 68-54.

Arroyo came back from an 11-4 deficit early in the game, largely on the shooting of Doug Gamblin. The 6-2 forward scored 15 of his 23 points in the first half to pull Arroyo to within two at the half.

The second half was different, though, as Stagg's big men got inside of Arroyo's zone defense.

Grady Holcomb, a 6-3 forward, took charge in the third quarter. Holcomb pulled down many of his 15 rebounds during the period, most of them in key situations. He also led the Delta Kings in scoring with 24 points.

Delta coach Tom Conway said the zone bothered his team. "Part of the problem was our guards were three of thirteen. We should have gone to a four - corner offense."

Second round action today pits Foothill against Arroyo at 4:00 and Amador Valley with Washington at 5:30 in the losers' bracket. Amador lost to Castlemont 60-57 in late Wednesday night play.

In the winners' bracket, Stagg meets Sacred Heart at 7:00 and Castlemont plays Bishop O'Dowd at 8:30.

4 teams, 11 players mix in big trade

HONOLULU - A trade of awesome proportions involving four teams and 11 players rocked baseball's winter meetings Thursday night.

Pitchers Bert Blyleven and Jon Matlack and sluggers Willie Montanez and Al Oliver were the key players in the deal involving the New York Mets, Texas Rangers, Pittsburgh Pirates and Atlanta Braves.

In the deal, the Braves first sent Montanez to Texas in exchange for pitchers Adrian Devine and Tom Boggs and infielder Eddie Miller. Then the Rangers shipped Montanez and outfielder Tom Grieve and a player to be named later to the Mets for Matlack and John Milner.

Texas then swapped Milner and Blyleven to Pittsburgh for Oliver and minor league infielder Nelson Norman.

Blyleven, a right-hander who was acquired by the Rangers from Minnesota two years ago, had a 14-12 record with a 2.72 earned run average last season. He recently signed a long-term contract with Texas which included deferred payments that will obligate his new team well into the 1990s.

The other high-salaried player in the deal was Montanez, a slick-fielding first baseman who batted .287 with 20 home runs and 68 runs batted in for the Braves last season. In seven full major league seasons, Montanez, who earns a reported $300,000 a year, has hit 102 home runs for Philadelphia, San Francisco and Atlanta.

To get him, the Mets surrendered first baseman-outfielder Milner, who batted .255 with 12 home runs and 57 runs batted in, and Matlack, a left-hander who suffered through a disappointing 7-15 season in 1977.

In addition to Montanez, the Mets obtained Grieve, an outfielder. Grieve batted .225 in 79 games for the Rangers last season.

Texas obtained Matlack to replace Blyleven in the starting rotation and also got Oliver, a consistent .300 hitter in 10 seasons with the Pirates. He hit .308 with 19 homers and 82 RBI last season.

To compensate for the loss of Oliver and Norman, Pittsburgh got Blyleven and Milner.

The Braves' end of the deal supplied them with Devine, who had an 11-6 record with 15 saves for the Rangers; Boggs, who split the season between Tucson and Texas, and Miller.

The deal was the biggest transaction completed in recent memory and was the first that included players holding complicated, long-term, expensive contracts.

By unloading Montanez and pitcher Andy Messersmith to the New York Yankees 24 hours earlier, Atlanta owner Ted Turner had relieved some $650,000 of his annual payroll.

The deal came shortly after Commissioner Bowie Kuhn lifted Turner's suspension from baseball, freeing the executive to return to baseball more than three months before his expulsion was due to expire.

Times 'cap picks five Bay firsts

When Times handicapper Chuck Dybdal took a couple of days off this week, he didn't have to worry, apparently, about having his fine record spoiled as sports editor Dave Weber stepped in to tab five winners on yesterday's card at Bay Meadows.

Crossing the line first for Weber and Times' readers were Exotic Gypsy ($8.20) in the second, Ongo ($11.60) in the fourth, Duke's Speedy Gal ($5.80) in the fifth, Ruler's Blade ($5.80) in the eighth and Wyatt Earp ($6.20) in the ninth race.

Ongo and Lex Talionis (4-1) combined for a $147.50 Exacta in the third.

Clark to coach '78 Bills?

BUFFALO — Former San Francisco 49ers' Coach Monte Clark will be named coach of the Buffalo Bills at season's end, a Buffalo newspaper reported.

In a story for Friday's editions, the Buffalo Courier-Express quoted "a former associate of Clark" and sources in the Bills' front office as saying the move has been planned for over a month.

Clark will be given full control of the team's playing personnel, the sources say, and will probably clean house. The Bills, 2-12 last year, are 2-10 this season.

Bills' owner Ralph Wilson Jr. was unavailable for comment, while Clark, contacted in San Francisco, said, "I really can't comment on that. There has been interest expressed in my coaching in the league, but I can't comment any further than that."

Clark was 8-6 as 49ers' coach last year, after taking over a team that was 5-9 the previous season. He resigned when Joe Thomas became general manager of the team, explaining that he would not coach unless he had full authority of playing personnel.

Clark was offensive line coach for the Miami Dolphins during their Super Bowl years.

Current Bills Coach Jim Ringo is not expected to return to the team. He took the job last year after serving as offensive line coach for Lou Saban, who resigned after the fifth game. Ringo's team was 0-9 under him last year.

Patterson leads 'Pokes to Yuba City victory

YUBA CITY — Livermore High,led by Dick Patterson's 32 points, broke a 26-26 halftime tie and went on to down the Lindhurst Blazers 57-51 in first round action of the Yuba Cty Holiday Tournament here last night.

Livermore now faces Castro Valley tonight at 7:00 p.m., while the other winner's bracket game will pit Yuba City against Red Bluff at 8:30.

In the first two contests, Castro Valley nipped Mira Loma in double overtime, 55-53, and Red Bluff dumped American High of Fremont 52-39.

Late last night, Yuba City dumped Mira Loma 65-55.

Patterson was virtually unstoppable fromthe floor in the second half. With Livermore leading 30-29 with 4:30 left in the third quarter the 'Pokes began an incredible scoring spree.

During the next few minutes, Patterson scored 18 of his team's 20 points, including 12 in a row at one stretch. Patterson was constantly able toget under the Blazer defense for an easy layup and had a hot touch from the outside.

By the time Patterson was through nearly singlehandedly destroying the Blazer defense, Livermore haD rolled up a 50-43 leadwith just 3:31 remainingin the game.

Lindhurst made an attempt to come back as the Blazersscored the next two baskets, but the 'Pokes remainedunder control and played steady, time - consumingbasketball to run out the clock, never losing itsthree - point margin.

Patterson was held to just eight points in the firsthalf as he, along with the rest of the team, had troublefindingthe range early in the game.

Livermore held a 15-12 lead at the end of the first quarterand extended it to 21-15 to go in the first half, but Lindhurstcame back with the next six points to knot the score at 21-21and the score see - sawed for the rest of the half.

John Farfan finished the night with 12 points, whileBrian Schweiger netted eight markers.

Rick Haka led Lindhurst with 21 points.

The 'Pokes won the tournament in '74 and '75, while finishingthird last year, all under former coach John Jones. This is-John Erceg's first year in the tournament as varsity coach. — Our correspondent

Warriors fall to Milwaukee

By DAVE WEBER

OAKLAND — Rickey Marsh was almost a hero.

Until Brian Winters Spoiled the game for the Golden State Warriors in no more time and it takes to scan this sentence.

The Milwaukee Bucks guard tossed in a 25-foot jumper from the right side as time expired to snap a three-game Warrior win streak, 117-116, last night at the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

Marsh scored a career-high 20 points, but a ball that got away ruined the thrill.

With :04 to go, the Bucks inbounded to Dave Meyers in the right corner and Clifford Ray smashed his shot to the floor among a group of Warriors.

"We had all those guys around it and still didn't get it," moaned coach Al Attles after watching the ball roll out of bounds. Marsh offered an explanation.

"I touched it," admitted the rookie from Manhattan. "But, somebody — I don't know who — pushed me out of bounds."

Whatever happened, and who ever did it, hardly mattered. The Bucks had another shot.

Attles, when told his team had in effect, defensed itself into defeat, sighed, "Sometimes the best laid plans often go astray...or something like that."

Though he said, "It'shard to hand out a rose when you lose," Attles had nothing but praise for Marsh, who got off the bench when Rick Barry was struggling in the firsthalf and stayed in the game to combine with Barry for 27 third period points.

Despite his cold spell in the first half, Barry wound up as the game's leading scorer with 31 points while Robert Parish tallied 23 and Winters led Milwaukee with 22. Parish also topped the Warriors with 17 rebounds and 3 blocked shots. John Gianelli, the University of Pacific grad, came off the bench to grab 11 rebounds and block five Warrior shots.

Turner let out of the doghouse

HONOLULU—Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn lifted the suspension of Atlanta Braves owner Ted Turner Thursday, freeing the executive to return to baseball more than three months before his expulsion was due to expire.

"I met with Mr. Turner last night and discussed his situation," said the commissioner, who had suspended Turner for one year and fined him $10,000 for tampering with free agent outfielder Gary Matthews following the 1976 season.

"He felt he had learned his lesson and that the point that I was trying to make was clear to him," said the commissioner. "He said he would like the suspension lifted and that he would cause no further problems. He has been a good citizen while under suspension and felt the club needed his abilities.

"Therefore I have decided to lift his suspension effective immediately."

Originally, Turner had been banned from baseball for one year, effective Dec. 30, 1976. That sentence was lifted during a court suit which the Atlanta owner initiated, testing Kuhn's right to impose the suspension. The courts upheld the commissioner and Turner, an accomplished yachtsman, spent the summer successfully defending the America's Cup.

Kuhn had lifted the suspension again temporarily earlier this month to allow the Atlanta owner to participate in the selection of a new manager for the Braves and in the business of the winter baseball meetings. With the interruptions, the suspension was due to expire March 23, 1978. But Kuhn's decision returns Turner to full participation in the business of running the Braves immediately.

Earlier Thursday, Chub Feeney was given a new four-year contract to continue as president of the National League and Baltimore Oriole Manager Earl Weaver was talked out of quitting his job. Weaver reportedly was ready to resign in anger and actually told the Orioles he was quitting. But the club would not accept his resignation and eventually he cooled off and reconsidered.

Earlier, the St. Louis Cardinals obtained outfielder Jerry Morales and catcher Steve Swisher from the Chicago Cubs in a five-player trade.

Raiders, Vikes meet

A battle for survival

OAKLAND—How a team goes into the National Football League playoffs isn't nearly as important as how it comes out, the Oakland Raiders and Minnesota Vikings are telling themselves these days.

Both went as far as possible last season, of course, with the Raiders claiming their first Super Bowl title by beating the Vikings 32-14 last January.

But going into Sunday's game here, neither team has clinched a playoff berth. Both could go into the final weekend of the regular season before knowing if they'll be in position to defend their respective conference championships.

Another thing the Super Bowl XI opponents have in common is injury problems.

"We'd like to be well and solid. But we can't dwell on the injuries. We've just got to dwell on the players we have and what they can do," says Coach John Madden of Oakland.

The players he doesn't have include safety George Atkinson, who broke an ankle in last week's loss to the Los Angeles Rams, and linebacker Phil Villapiano who suffered a knee injury early in the season. Both were starters on the defensive unit which held the Vikings to a pair of touchdowns, including one in the final minute, and limited Minnesota star Chuck Foreman to 44 yards rushing in the Super Bowl.

Oakland, 9-3, is the highest scoring team in the NFL, with 295 points, but quarterback Ken Stabler suffered a knee injury three weeks ago and the four interceptions he allowed in Los Angeles raised the question whether he's sound. The lefthander insists he is.

Minnesota, 8-4, has been without passing great Fran Tarkenton since he broke a leg last month and will finish the season and, Coach Bud Grant hopes, go into the playoffs with journeyman Bob Lee and rookie Tommy Kramer handling the quarterback job. Kramer was the star of last Sunday's 28-27 victory over the San Francisco 49ers. The Vikings were behind 24-7 when the rookie entered the game. He concluded a brilliant relief performance with a 69-yard touchdown pass to Sammy White with 1:38 remaining. The teams' other healthy players include Oakland running backs Mark van Eeghen and Clarence Davis, who have comb'ned for 1,808 yards rushing, and Minnesota's Foreman who has 908 yards rushing to go with 35 pass receptions for 331 yards. Van Eeghen leads AFC rushers with 1,090 yards and is 10 short of the Raiders' team record held by Marv Hubbard.

Ahmad Rashad of the Vikings is tied for the NFC pass receiving lead, with 42. Oakland tight end Dave Casper is among the AFC leaders, with 46 catches for 567 seasons.

The Raiders are aiming for a wild card playoff berth, now that Denver, 11-1, has dethroned them as AFC West champs. Minnesota leads the NFC Central but Chicago is just one game back.

Small pick again

LOS ANGELES —For the third straight year, Gerald Small of San Jose State is a member of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association all-conference football team.

Small, a cornerback, is among the 24 players accorded first-team All-PCAA honors, Commissioner Jess Hill announced Wednesday. Fresno State, which who won its four conference games this fall, placed 13 players on the first team. San Jose State and the University of Pacific had four first-teamers each while Cal State Fullerton filled two spots and Long Beach State one.

First-team selections for the second straight season were linebacker Dan Bunz of Long Beach State; defensive lineman Simon Peterson of Fresno State; cornerback Curtis Minor of Fresno State and kicker Vince Petrucci of Fresno State.

Dorsett could steal show against 49ers

SAN FRANCISCO — Since both teams are past the point of facing crucial regular season games, the Monday night meeting of the Dallas Cowboys and San Francisco 49ers may turn into a showcase for Tony Dorsett.

The Dallas running back, after exploding for 206 yards in last week's 24-14 victory over Philadelphia, is just 135 short of becoming one of the few players in National Football League history to rush for 1,000 yards as a rookie.

"That man is incredible. I'll tell you, I've never seen anyone like him, certainly not in the time I've been in Dallas anyway," says Roger Staubach, the Cowboys' quarterback.

"Dorsett just gives them that big play in the running game, and they have always been able to get the big play from their passing game," Coach Dick Vermeil of Philadelphia said after the rookie had clinched the Dallas victory over the Eagles with a late 84-yard touchdown run.

In a nationally televised Monday night game earlier this season, Dorsett dashed 77 yards for a touchdown against St. Louis. He has had a pair of 34-yard runs, including one last week.

The rookie from Pitt has started only two games, compiling his 865 rushing yards on 171 carries for an average gain of 5.1 yards. Preston Pearson, the dislodged starter, has totaled 306 yards, and Robert Newhouse has contributed 628 yards to the Cowboys' almost perfectly balanced offense which ranks first in the NFL.

The Cowboys have 2,078 net yards passing, 2,074 rushing.

San Francisco's passing yardage total of 1,044 is the lowest in the NFL, but the 49ers have two strong runners in Delvin Williams and Wilbur Jackson. The two starting running backs are nursing minor injuries, however.

Livermore Marathon takes off

The fourth annual Livermore Jaycees and PA-AAU sanctioned Marathon will be held Saturday, starting at 10 a.m.

The race begins at the Lawerence Livermore Laboratory on East Avenue in Livermore and returns there. It is a 26-mile course. There is also a shorter 13.1 mile unsanctioned race which will be held at the same time. Trasnportation will be provided to return all marathoners to the finish line of the marathon. About 1,000 runners are expected this year. 750 came to the main marathon last year.

Post-registration (from 8:30 to 9:45 a.m. the day of the race) is $3 per individual and $6 per family. Each finisher will receive a point score based on his time as a percent of the world record for his (her) age/sex group.

There will be color finish pictures for all marathon finishers. Free additional awards will go to the top finishers and top point scorers. The first runnerover 50 to finish will receive the Ray Heminger Memorial Trophy. Souvenoir T-shirts will be on sale for the runners. The half-marathon finishers will receive a ribbon. Entry fee is $1.50.

For further information contact Dick Jones at 443-4051 (home) or 422-3278 at work. Runners may also contact Roger Johnson at 455-1124 (home) or 447-1100 at work. Meet director Guy Manthey of the Livermore JCs may be contacted at 415-455-9673.

BASKETBALL CONTEST

Livermore's Patrick Power Concil of Columbus, will Conduct the 1977 K of C Basketball Free Throw Contest for the Livermore area Sunday, December 11 at 2 p.m. at St. Michael's Parish Hall, third and Maple Streets.

The contest is open to all boys and girls in each age group making the most baskets in 25 free throw attempts. Winners in each age group will automically be entered in the Oakland regional contests. No costs or fees to particpate are required. Only written parental permission and proof of age are required.

Additional information may be obtained from Ken Jackson at 447-8934 or Tom Mills at 455-9689.

PGSA

The Pleasanton Girls' Soccer Association will sponsor an indoor soccer and basketball game with the PGSA coaches taking on the San Jose Earthquakes in Amador Valley High School's gym, Wednesday Dec. 14 at 7:30 p.m.

Cost of admission is $2 for adults and $1 for youths with a family plan for two adults and two youths at $5. Tickets can be purchased at Amador Sports and Squired Sport Shoes in Pleasanton. Additional tickets may be purchased at Soccer Unlimited in Dublin or by calling Dora Spence in 846-7107.

DROP-IN-BASKETBALL

The free drop-in basketball program sponsored by the Valley Community Services District (VCSD) Recreation Department has been moved back to 8 p.m. from 10 p.m. The rearrangement is due to Dublin High School's use of the gym for basketball practice, according to the VCSD recreation department.

For further information, call 828-7711.

Padgett scores hat trick

In a "televised" game, Tri - Valley's Mite AA hockey team belted Belmont 5-2 in Tri , Valley Minor Hockey Association play.

Donovan Padgett scored three goals while E.J. Rankin and Chris Sharp added one each for the winners. Bobby Long made 15 saves at goalie.

Portions of the game were videotapedand will be shown on KPIX - TV's Evening Magazine Show during the week of Jan. 2-6 at 7:30 p.m. The locals took a four - point lead over second - place Belmont with the win, enabling the Mites to remain undefeated at 9-0-1.

In a Peewee AA contest, Tri - Valley nipped Santa Rosa 3-2 as Mike Merrick, Guy Harmon and Robby McAndrews scored the needed goals. McAndrews' goal was the decider, a 10 - foot rebound shot late in the second period. The win moved them into a fourth - placetie in the 12 - team league.

Tom Gill scored the only two goals for Tri-Valley in a 11-2 loss to to powerful Eastridge in Peewee A action. George Felton and Billy Faringhy had assists. Michael Schmidt, Bobby Alrich, Tom Parco and Mike Brown played well.

In Squirt "A" play, Stockton blasted Tri-Valley 12-1. Steve Barnett pocketed the lone local goal.

Dave Perona scored the only goal in a 7-1 loss to Eastridge in Squirt "AA" play.

You'll See

"BLACK BEAUTY," Anna Sewell's family classic about a magnificent stallion, has been adapted for televison and will be presented as a five-part mini-series on NBC during the next television season.

WALT DISNEY Productions will develop three original two-hour premiere movies for NBC this year. The films represent Disney's entry into the made-for-television field. Last year the company produced "The Ghost of Cypress Swamp" for NBC and it earned high ratings.

AUTOMOTIVE

Craig Gallagher tests the emission control device on an automobile at Falcon Auto Repair Service as mechanic-turned-teacher Bob Hagin watches closely.

'You Gotta be Patient'

Slow, cheap mechanics

By KIM FAVORS
Times Staff Writer

PLEASANT HILL — Falcon ROP Automotive Service is not the garage to leave your car with if you're in a hurry.

"Our motto is: 'You Can't Beat Our Prices But You Gotta Be Patient,'" says head mechanic Bob Hagin.

"What takes a regular shop only one hour to do might take us four," Hagin says, "but it's done right and done for free and who can beat that?"

Falcon Auto Service is a state-licensed garage and auto parts outlet located at College Park High School.

More importantly, it's the key element of the auto mechanics classes Hagin teaches at the school.

Hagin's assistant mechanics are 75 students — from both the high school and the Regional Occupational Program run by the county Superintendent of Schools.

Two days of the week Hagin holds class. The remaining three days Falcon Auto Service is open for business.

"Presently we do tuneups, brake repairs and overhauls, front end alignment, and tuneup and emission control inspections. And in a few months we hope to begin diagnostic testing."

Teaching asssistant Gary Penn from Diablo Valley College, left, discusses work on a cylinder head with instructor Bob Hagin.

Falcon Auto Service has the necessary state licenses for repairs, parts sales and smog device certification, and is run "almost like any other honest and well-run" garage, Hagin boasts .

"Before I'll let my kids raise the hood on any car that's driven in here I make sure they get out a repair order. Since we're registered as a repair shop we still have to give an estimate, even though all the work is done for free.

"And if the 'estimate' runs high, the mechanic has to call the customer and get his approval before any more work is done."

Hagin, 44, left a well-paying mechanics career five years ago to become a vocational teacher.

"I'm making a hell of a lot less money, but this job has really been a windfall." he says.

"The auto industry is crying for people and it's really thrilling to know that the kid who leaves here tomorrow can make $11 and $12 an hour as a mechanic.""

One of Hagin's goals is to train his students on the most modern repair equipment available.

To that end he visited General Motors research Laboratory in Southern California.

"Now we've got the same sophisticated equipment they use."

And Hagin has appealed to school district officials for funding to expand the auto shop's present facilities.

"I want the kids to learn all the professional aspects of auto work — I want to send them out into the world as well-armed as possible."

Hagin's efforts have not gone unnoticed by auto industry officials and local businessmen.

Last month officials of Penneys' department store, which employs several of Hagin's 'graduates' in the store's Concord garage, gave the instructor $80,000 worth of diagnostic testing equipment.

Chrysler combating corrosion

Detroit — Chrysler Corporation's new small cars feature the most extensive use of corrosion resistant materials ever used by the company. The materials will help owners maintain that new car appearance and usefulness of their cars.

Chrysler achieved improved corrosion protection through the use of new applications of galvanized sheet metal body panels. Zinc primers, organic coatings, along with a phosphate dip and spray treatment protect the underbody surfaces. Multiple coats of primer and enamel provide added durability and protection to the exterior surfaces. For additional protection, plastic splash shields line the front wheel housings.

Chrysler engineers Jesigned the Omni and Horizon with more applications and greater quantities of galvanized metal than in Chrysler's other cars. Sheet steel is coated with zinc, applied to the cold-rolled steel coil at the steel mill. The galvanized coating can be applied to one side or both sides of the sheet.

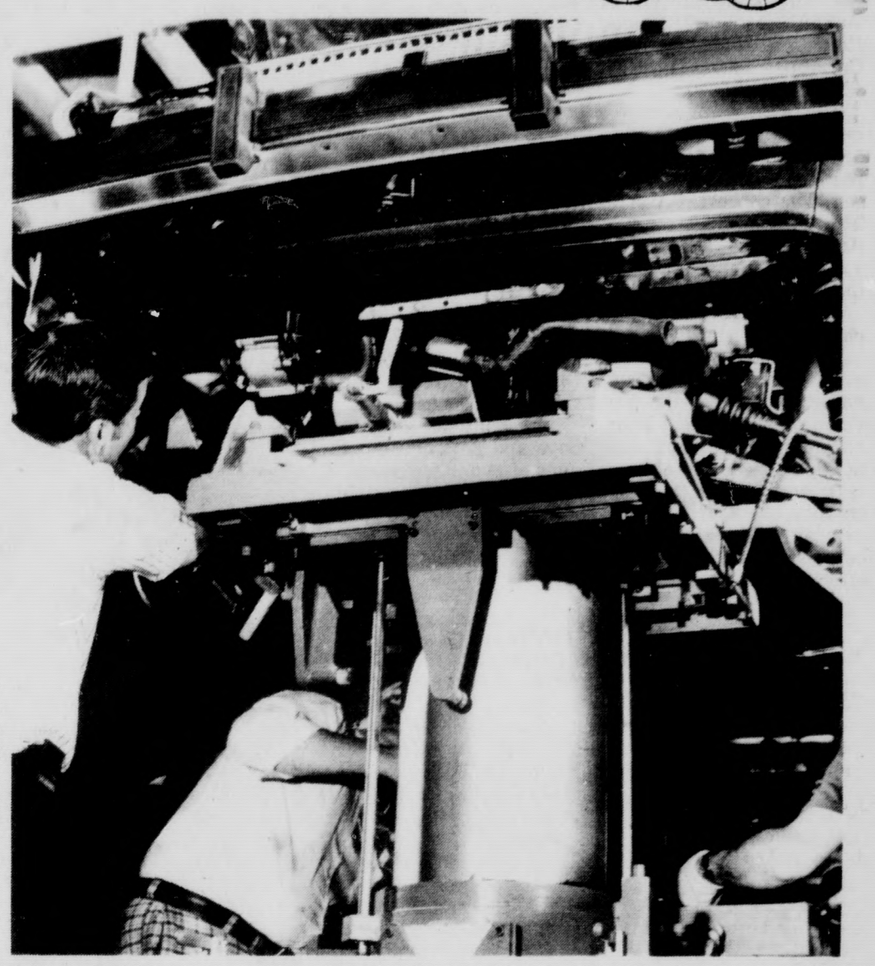
The advantages are a uniform zinc coating on the steel which protects inside surfaces crimped over or boxed-in during the stamping or assembly process.

Chrysler places the galvanized side of a panel, such as on a door, on the inside to protect it from the corrosive materials which may accumulate on the inner surfaces.

Chrysler pioneered the use of one-sided galvanized metal for automotive applications in the mid 1960's. However, production quantities of the product have been limited and only recently have supplies become available for new applications.

Chrysler also applies zinc pigmented primers to the sheet steel at the stamping or assembly plant after the metal is pressed. This anti-corrosion primer is sprayed or applied to surfaces that are to be crimped over, boxed-in, or hidden during the formation of the part or at assembly.

On stampings that are to be welded, a coating of weld-through primer is used.



Omni and Horizon engines rise to the occasion at the Belvidere Assembly Plant.

10-day sales

Oldsmobile sets mark

Lansing, Mich. — Oldsmobile dealers established another 10-day sales record by delivering 29,869 new cars during early November.

"This surpasses this period's previous high of 28,964 cars set a year ago and boosts Oldsmobile's calendar year total 12 per cent ahead of the 1976 record pace," said J.F. Mattox, divisional general sales manager.

"The 1978 Oldsmobiles are off to a strong start," Mattox continued, "and we remain confident that the coming year will be another good one for the industry and for Olds."

A breakdown of sales for November 1-10 shows: 430 Starfires; 1,191 Omegas; 15,983 Cutlasses; 6,868 Eighty-Eights; 4,397 Ninety-Eights; and 1,000 Toronados.

Datsun economy in style

The new Datsun 510 series is highlighted by the economy of operation expected in a practical size car and the comfort, convenience and performance usually associated with a larger, more luxurious car.

Designed to replace the 710 in the Datsun lineup, the 510 series includes 2-door hatchback, 2-door sedan, 4-door sedan and wagon versions.

Compared to the 710 the new 510 features a roomier interior in a smaller exterior package. The sedan model is built on a wheelbase 2 inches shorter than a comparable 710. Overall length is down 1.2 inches, overall height is down .6 inches. The width has been slightly increased by .8 inches, but with that small outside dimension increase the useable interior width has grown by 2.7 inches.

Technically, the new Datsun 510 features a unique 4-link rear suspension on all sedans and the coupe. This suspension design uses four links, or bars, to prevent horizontal and front-to-back movement of the solid rear axle.

Coupled with coil springs and shock absorbers, the 4-link suspension offers improved riding comfort, reduced weight and increased trunk room. The front suspension uses MacPherson struts.

The brakes, disc front and drum rear, are power assisted on all models, and use a larger power booster than the 710 to increase braking efficiency.

Extensive use of sound deadening materials coupled with anti-noise mountings for the engine, transmission and suspension components result in a quiet ride.

The engine of the new 510 is Datsun's proven 2-liter, overhead cam, in-line, 4-cylinder. The transmission is a four-speed manual, standard on all models except the hatchback, which features a fuel-saving, five-speed transmission with overdrive.

A three-speed automatic transmission is available as an option on all models.

All 510s feature a transistorized ignition, which is standard throughout the Datsun line for 1978.

Curb-to-curb, the turning diameter of the new 510 is 33.4 feet, compared to 36.8 feet for the 710. Datsun's engineering improvements on the recirculating ball steering system have resulted in a more responsive car which requires 20 percent less steering effort for parking, U-turns and normal city driving situations.

The styling of the new 510 sedans is designed to reflect the bold, upright lines of the luxurious 810. This lean, high "greenhouse" design offers advantages of improved visibility and passenger space. A reduction in window pillar thickness and improved window design result in a 20 percent overall increase in glass area over the 710.

The 510 hatchback coupe features the versatile fold-down rear seats and lends itself to popular acessories such as custom wheels and tires to project functionality with a sporty flavor.

On the inside, the new 510s offer color coordinated interiors in subdued green or tan vinyls or black cloth.

The seats are a new low-back design which give good lateral support under enthusiastic driving conditions and good back support for the long haul. The seat backs are fully reclining and the seats have increased forward travel.

The instrument panel is designed to be attractive and functional with attention to legibility and unimpaired visibility. A quartz clock is standard on all but the 2-door sedan.

Record auto recalls

DETROIT (AP) — Auto recalls are heading for record levels this year, with nearly 9 million vehicles called back to dealers for repair of possible safety defects since Jan. 1.

That's just short of the record 9.4 million vehicles recalled in 1971, according to figures from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

And with less than a month to go in 1977, the year-to-date total contrasts with just 1.8 million cars, trucks and other vehicles recalled in all of 1975 and 3 million last year.

The government says it sees no trend in this year's figures, and reports that the number of 1977 recall campaigns — 209 — is actually slightly below those in 1975 and 1976.

A breakdown this year shows 44 recall orders of 480,000 imports. More than half were pre-1977 models, but exact figures were unavailable.

For no clear reason, the latest U.S. recall campaigns have covered more vehicles. Automakers say it's partly a matter of luck — or bad luck — dictated by whether defects turn up in popular or low-sale vehicles.

Joan Claybrook, who was appointed by President Carter to head the safety administration, has begun 25 auto recall investigations this year — compared to just four in 1976.

Still, only one of this year's 209 recall campaigns was directly ordered by the government. The agency claims partial credit for another 40 industry-ordered recalls, while the rest saw no government involvement, said Irv Chor, a consumer affairs specialist at NHTSA.

Spanish Mass celebrates Our Lady of Guadalupe

LIVERMORE — This Sunday at 3 p.m., St. Michael Parish will again hold its annual procession and Mass in Spanish, in honor of Our Lady of Guadalupe, Patroness of the Americas.

The fascinating story of Guadalupe is familiar to many in Central and South America, but only recently have visitors to the Basilica in Mexico City become familiar with the story.

Scientists from all over the world have travelled to Mexico City to study and analyze the cloth (ayate) on which the image of Our Lady miraculously appeared in 1531. All evidence to date indicates that no one could have painted it.

About one and one half miles from the Zocalo (the great square of Mexico City) is a place called Tlaltelolco. The huge temple of Huitzilopochtli, the god of war of the Aztecs, was located there; human sacrifices were often made to this God.

The princess Papantzin, a sister of Monltezuma II, ruled the principality of Tlaltelolco before the Spanish conquest. In 1509 she fell into a coma and believing her to be dead, her subjects buried her in the royal tomb in the palace garden.

However, she awakened from the coma, her cries were heard, and she was taken from the tomb. The Princess told of a dream she had had while in the coma. Her dream foretold the arrival of the Spanish galleons which she watched from the shore with an unknown guide. The guide informed her that the big ships brought conquerors who would alter the course of history.

The Princess Papantzin informed her brother the Emperor of her vision, and it is thought that her story was a major factor which caused Montezuma to capitulate to Cortez ten years later.

The unique fact in the dream of the Princess was that the Spanish ships had black crosses on their sails, which were the same as the cross on the forehead of her unknown guide in her dream.

When, in 1531, Our Lady of Guadalupe appeared to Juan Diego, she wore a brooch which had on it a cross of the same design.

The history of the apparition at Guadalupe is one of the exciting stories, many of which cannot be explained. More and more the story is being investigated and marvelled at.

In the United States there are 495 shrines and churches venerating this Lady and the Church of the Immaculate Conception in Allentown, Pa. has been made the National Guadalupe Center for the USA.

Helen Boyer and Sharon Dane unpack some of the Bolivian rugs, ponchos, alpaca sweaters and mittens and other hand made gift items that will be sold on Sunday at Camp Parks Chapel, from 1 to 5 p.m.

Jewish lecture

HAYWARD — William Frankel, Editor Emeritus, the London Jewish Chronicle, will speak at the coffee house in the cafeteria building at California State University — Hayward, at 8 p.m., on Dec. 15 on "Separatism or Integration — The Jewish Dilemma."

The talk is one of a series of lectures sponsored by the Southern Alameda County Area Council and the Jewish Welfare Federation of Alameda and Contra Costa Counties, concerned with the central issues facing Jews and Judaism today.

Mr. Frankel will examine his subject from the perspective of a keen student of Jewish life around the globe.

Choir concert

LIVERMORE — The Livermore High School Acapella Choir, directed by James Heiner, will present a concert this Sunday at 6 p.m. at the First Nazarene Church, 418 Junction Ave.

Included in the presentation will be several selections from Handel's "Messiah."

At 9:30 a.m., Dec. 11, the Junior Choir of the church, directed by Susie Hiller, will present the musical "Our House." The public is invited to both of these presentations.

Rosemary Marty, Karan Ruskovsky, Dotty Bartelson and Lois Codd are the members of the Liturgical Dance Choir that will perform as part of "Festival of Praise," an experience of worship and praise by Thurlow Spurr, to be presented in the Pleasanton Presbyterian Community Church sanctuary, 100 Neal Street, at 9:30 and 11 a.m. and at 8 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 11. The Sanctuary Choir will sing and trumpeter John Waldron will improvise. —(Times photo by Mike Macor)

Festival of Praise

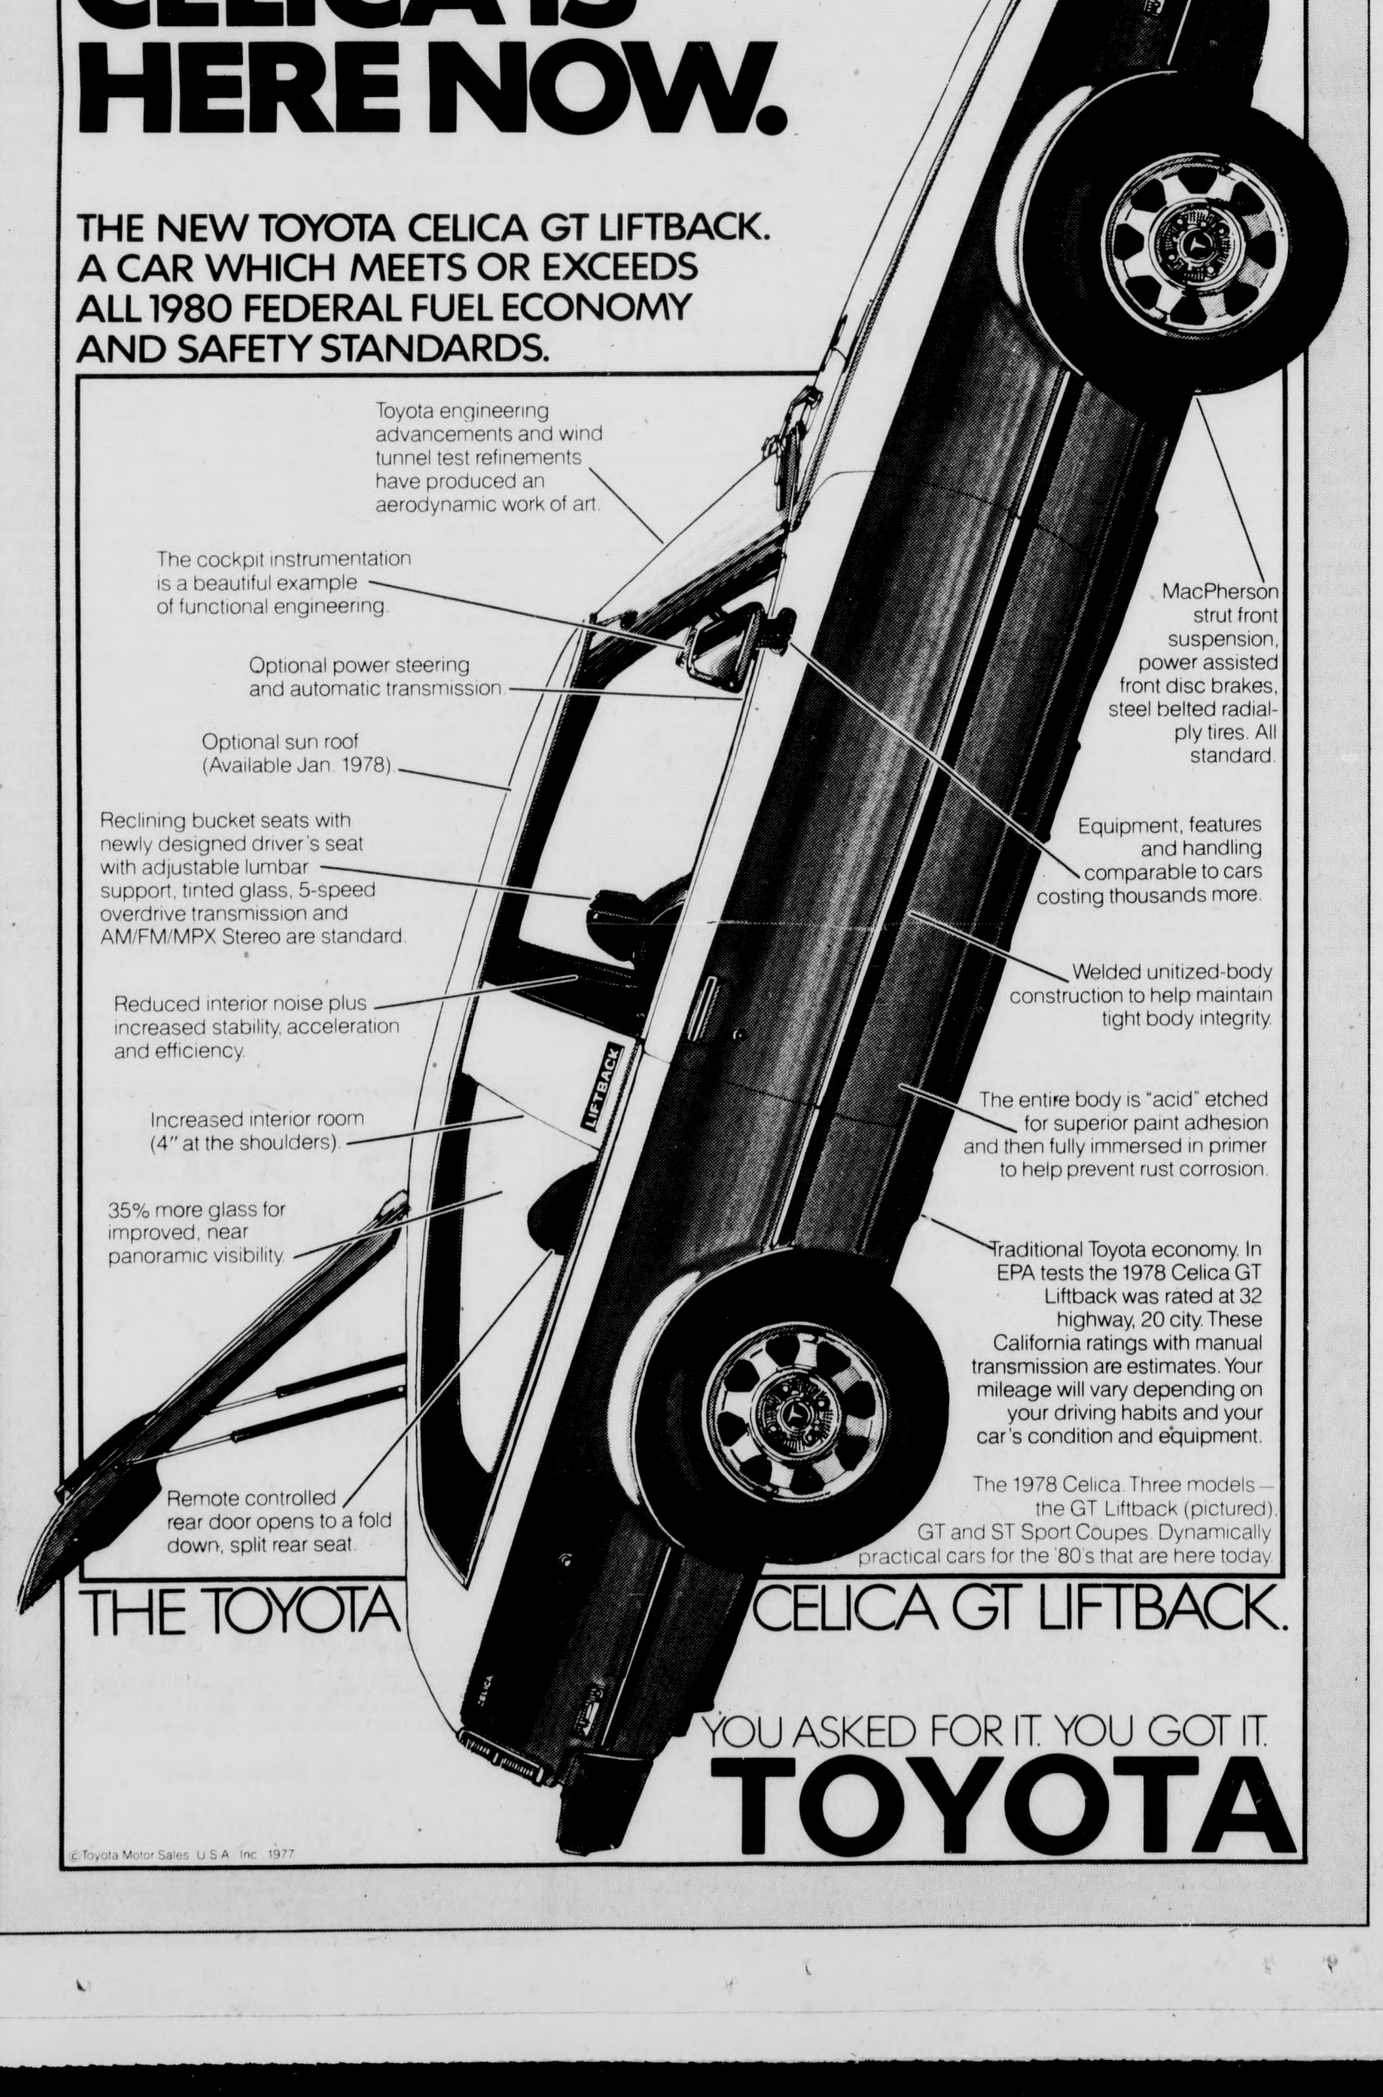
THE 1980's CELICA IS HERE NOW.

THE NEW TOYOTA CELICA GT LIFTBACK. A CAR WHICH MEETS OR EXCEEDS ALL 1980 FEDERAL FUEL ECONOMY AND SAFETY STANDARDS.



Toyota engineering advancements and wind tunnel test refinements have produced an aerodynamic work of art.
The cockpit instrumentation is a beautiful example of functional engineering.
Optional power steering and automatic transmission.
Optional sun roof (Available Jan. 1978)
Reclining bucket seats with newly designed driver's seat with adjustable lumbar support, tinted glass, 5-speed overdrive transmission and AM/FM/MPX Stereo are standard.
Reduced interior noise plus increased stability, acceleration and efficiency.
Increased interior room (4" at the shoulders).
35% more glass for improved, near panoramic visibility.
Remote controlled rear door opens to a fold down, split rear seat.
MacPherson strut front suspension, power assisted front disc brakes, steel belted radial-ply tires. All standard.
Equipment, features and handling comparable to cars costing thousands more.
Welded unitized-body construction to help maintain tight body integrity.
The entire body is "acid" etched for superior paint adhesion and then fully immersed in primer to help prevent rust corrosion.
Traditional Toyota economy. In EPA tests the 1978 Celica GT Liftback was rated at 32 highway, 20 city. These California ratings with manual transmission are estimates. Your mileage will vary depending on your driving habits and your car's condition and equipment.
The 1978 Celica. Three models — the GT Liftback (pictured) GT and ST Sport Coupes. Dynamically practical cars for the '80's that are here today.

Rev. Moon cult loses momentum

NEW YORK (AP) — On mornings when the weather is good, a portly young man stands on Fifth Avenue playing a sousaphone and hawking The News World, the daily newspaper financed by Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church.

Most of the time, he draws only a curious look or or two.

The Moonies have blended into the New York scenery.

In 1976, Moonies were the best-publicized sect in America, spreading their doctrine of the coming of the Messiah and the Kingdom of God, preaching on street corners and at big rallies in New York and Washington and, as opponents protested, alienating impressionable or unstable youngsters from their families.

As 1977 ends, less is heard of the sect's aggressive recruiting. The Unification Church is midway in its two-year drive to evangelize America, but there's no indication that its message has caught on with more than a tiny fraction of Americans. Church officials put the membership at 30,000 (which is fewer than many an obscure denomination's), and those who have studied the movement say there may be no more than 3,000 hard-core converts.

But if the Unification Church has yet to make a significant impact as a religion, it's made progress in other ways — in part because the failure of a mass response from American youth has quieted the most serious apprehensions.

The church has won court fights against deprogrammers who sought to reconvert young members of the movement. And if church recruiters haven't turned every kid on the block into a Moonie, they've turned a large contingent into street vendors of candy and flowers and put others to work in church-affiliated businesses that generated $24 million in profits last year.

This is achieved by adjusting process parameters to insure proper electrical characteristics of N-Channel MOS devices. Process trouble-shooting required and supervision of group of operators which collect data reflecting stability and quality of wafer fabrication operations. Digesting the data and diagnosing masking, diffusion and thin film quality problems is necessary along with implementing the solution with help of other fab engineers. 0-2 yrs. experience in semi-conductor industry, preferably MOS wafer fabrication. BS, MS, EE, Physics, Cheme or equivalent device physic knowledge helpful. Send resume to: Intel Corp., 250 No. Mines Rd., Livermore, Ca. 94550. Attn: Winnie Rambo. E.O.E.

Dublin-San Ramon seniors donate needy family funds

DUBLIN — The Senior Californians of Dublin-San Ramon donated $200 to the Children's Emergency Council.

Yesterday at Shannon Community Center in Dublin, Senior Californians President John McCaffery made the presentation to Carol Lopez. She is Secretary-Treasurer of the Children's Emergency Council.

The Council is a volunteer group that gives temporary help to needy families in Dublin and San Ramon.

"Our general purpose is to offer assistance in emergency situations," Lopez stated. "We act as a referral agency when the person or family needs permanent assistance. We will offer assistance to a family more than once if it is a proven emergency situation."

The Council is comprised of local churches, service clubs and organizations. Representatives from all community churches and several of the clubs and organizations serve on the council's general board.

Funding is derived from donations.

At Christmas, a large drive for canned food is made through schools, churches and organizations. Lopez said requests for aid are increasing.

"This year was the heaviest we have ever seen," she said. "We had 75 requests this year but only 50 the year before."

She stated aid given to 50 families last year involved roughly 200 children.

Lopez pointed out the Council often helps families who have applied for welfare but are having to wait approximately six weeks for welfare paperwork to clear.

One Council volunteer is bi-lingual for the benefit of Spanish speaking clients.

Anyone seeking aid from the council will be dealing with trained personnel who keep a client's problem in strictest confidence, Lopez added.

Anyone wishing to make a donation or seek help can call the Council at 828-5363.

Allan Reubelt, Dublin artist, is scheduled to be shown on the Heartbeat TV show today and Dec. 14 at 10 a.m.

TV show features area artist

DUBLIN — A television show featuring Dublin artist Allan Reubelt will be shown today and Dec. 14 at 10 a.m. on KEMO TV's Heartbeat production.

KEMO TV is located in San Francisco.

Reubelt's show is scheduled to be televised on channel eight in Dublin, San Ramon, Pleasanton and Livermore. It can be seen on channel six in Danville.

The TV guide lists Heartbeat on channel 20 along with a second showing at 11 p.m. Reubelt said to the best of his knowledge, that channel and time did not apply locally.

Reubelt was born in New York but has lived in Dublin for 11 years.

He has put on one-man art shows in this area and throughout the United States.

He said his style is realistic. Acrylic is his medium. He does not paint portraits but concentrates on painting seascapes, landscapes and wildlife.

His most recent one-man art show in Dublin was Nov. 13.

New Junction administrator

Tuesday night the Livermore Valley Unified School District board unanimously appointed Dorris R. Knapp vice principal of Junction Avenue Intermediate School.

Knapp joined the district as a counselor in 1970 after serving with the Berkeley school district and Livermore Presbyterian Church.

A graduate of the University of the Pacific and Cal State Hayward, she resides locally with her husband, Myron, three sons and one daughter.

Area water use shows big drop

PLEASANTON — Water use in November was down 22 percent from the amount used the same month in 1976.

That statistic brought relief to director of public works and utilities Alan Campbell who says water use in October had increased by 2 percent over the previous year.

"Every other month this year water use has been down expect in October. And I can't explain why," said Campbell.

Even before the drought, water use has dropped in November and December, according to the director. Traditionally, the rainy season began those months so people didn't need to water their lawns and shrubs.

Now Campbell speculates that people stop worrying about their lawns around November because grass begins to go dormant during winter, even water can't bring back that summer look.
